K Greets Nehru Warmly

MOSCOW (UPI)—Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru flew into Moscow from Belgrade today with a "save the peace" plea to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

He was welcomed by Khrushchev with a warm embrace and an expression of hope by the Kremlin leader that "your visit in the present international situation will help to improve this situation for the benefit of world peace."

Nehru came to Moscow direct from the "summit" conference of unaligned nations in Belgrade which in a final communique called upon Soviet Russia and the United States to immediately "suspend their recent war preparations" and "resume negotiation for a peaceful settlement of any outstanding differences between them."

FOLLOWED NKURUMAH

As a peace emissary from Belgrade, Nehru arrived shortly after President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, also designated by the Belgrade conference to carry its peace pleas to Khrushchev.

It was Nehru who received the major attention. He had scheduled this official visit before the Belgrade conference.

Nehru was met with full honors at Vnukovo airport by Khrushchev leading a delegation of top-ranking party and government officials. Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev led the welcoming delegation for Nkrumah.

The greetings were extremely cordial.

Khrushchev, still tanned from his recent Black Sea vacation, gave Nehru one of his typical bear-hug greetings. In his brief airport remarks, he not only expressed the hope Nehru's visit could help the cause of peace but also stressed the record of friendship between the Soviet Union and India.

Nehru, who had scheduled an official visit here before the Belgrade conference, sponsored the meeting's pre-dawn peace appeal to the United States and the Soviet Union only a few hours earlier.

Nkrumah was the official conference delegate who was to impress on Khrushchev the emergency call of the 25 uncommitted nations.

The resolution declared that in the last decade British Columbians have watched the tremendous growth of the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company, a growth which now engulfs "almost half of the forest products produced in the province."

"This organization has become so big and powerful, and has such a stranglehold on industry through its control of forest management licenses, re-manufacturing processes, shipping, etc., that they can manipulate the market thereby giving them a virtual stranglehold on B.C. industry and becoming a monopolized menace to the province of British Columbia," the resolution said.

RETURN TO OWNERS—The resolution declared that the Powell River Company, recently amalgamated into the MacMillan-Bloedel organization, should be "given back to its original owners." In the event of refusal "we petition the provincial government to expropriate MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company as a crown corporation where it is to be operated in the interests of the people of B.C."

In other resolutions to come before the convention the IWA will urge:

- Support a union of Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand politically and economically as a step toward world government.
- Sponsored by a Vancouver local the resolution declares that the road to world government is the only road to peace.
- "We can, within our great Commonwealth of Nations, initiate action towards the path to world government."
- The provincial government be accused of withholding $24 a month in federal

DIEF, PEARSON AGREE ON FOREIGN POLICY

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker met for 30 minutes today with Opposition leader Lester B. Pearson, discussing the resumption of the parliamentary session and briefing him on the international situation.

Both men indicated to newsmen later that as far as possible there would be agreement between their parties on foreign affairs during the current session.

Pearson said Diefenbaker impressed upon him the gravity of the international situation.

"We want to keep as much unity as possible in external affairs," Pearson said.

Diefenbaker said later that the government has always tried to have unity of foreign policy with the Liberals.

"Our objectives are the same," he said.

Pearson said Diefenbaker was so concerned with the international situation he moved ahead a debate on external affairs so that it could start Thursday on the resumption of the session.

Liberal Chief Sees UN Action on Berlin

TIME TO KEEP COOL HEADS SAYS DOUGLAS

REGINA (CP)—President Kennedy's announcement that the United States will resume nuclear testing is both understandable and regrettable, Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan said today.

The national leader of the New Democratic Party said in a prepared statement:

"It is understandable because the Soviet Union has already made three nuclear tests in the last few days, but regrettable because it is another step along the always-dangerous road that could lead to a nuclear holocaust."

"This is a time for all countries, including our own, to keep cool heads. To attempt to meet bluster with bluster at this critical stage in world affairs is to court disaster," he said.

UN Troops Attacked

ELISABETHVILLE (AP)—Anti-United Nations disturbances erupted again in Elisabethville tonight and again Katanga police fired shots over the heads of mobs to break up the angry demonstrations.

UN troops stationed in this city in the Congo were stoned and some Swedish soldiers were injured by flying rocks.

Mobs rioted in the streets Tuesday night and wrecked one UN car and burned another.

Missing Children Safe in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Five children missing since Tuesday along with a 35-year-old housemaid were found safe today in the care of the municipal family welfare service.

They were left there Tuesday afternoon by the housemaid, known to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Philibert, only as Louise.

Capt. Del. George Cookson of the missing persons bureau said the children are well and were not ill-treated between the time the mother left the home about 11 a.m. and their arrival at the welfare centre about five hours later.

He said he is not looking for the maid, hired "off the street" last week by the Philiberts, who live in the south-central district of suburban Griffintown.

The welfare service placed the youngest child, four months, in a nursery, the oldest, 8, in hospital for treatment for a nervous disorder, and the three others in a foster home in nearby Marieville.

Police said steps are being taken to have all but the boy in hospital for examination returned to their home today.

SOVIET TESTS WILL EXPAND KENNEDY TOLD

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John A. McCone, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, expressed belief today that the current Soviet nuclear tests are a prelude to the testing of bigger weapons.

He told President Kennedy, however, that he did not think it was necessary for the United States to undertake tests in the atmosphere at this time. He agreed with the president's decision that further U.S. tests should be conducted underground.

Walkouts Mar Auto Peace Negotiations

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers and General Motors reached substantial agreement on economic areas of a new contract today but not in time to avert wildcat strikes by thousands of GM workers.

GM and the UAW, under the personal urging of President Kennedy to avert a walkout that would damage the national economy, made a pre-dawn announcement of "significant progress" in their negotiations.

The union then extended its strike deadline from 10 a.m. today to 10 a.m. next Monday and immediately sent telegrams to 129 local unions around the country telling them the walkout had been averted.

But several locals, claiming they had not received word of the contract extension, put their members on strike.

At Pittsburgh, 1,450 workers at a Fisher Body plant walked out.

Another 3,400 workers walked out at the Chevrolet Assembly and Fisher Body plants in Norwood, Ohio, and 1,500 men stayed off their jobs for two hours at South Gate, Calif.

Wildcat walkouts also were reported at Fisher Body and Chevrolet Assembly plants in St. Louis.

FIVE MONTHS OF NEGOTIATION

Carpenters Finally Sign

Agreement between 600 Victoria carpenters and 22 leading contractors after five months of contract negotiations was reached Tuesday.

Carpenter's Union Local 1598 and Victoria Building Industries Exchange signed their first three-year working contract.

It provides for no wage increase this year, but will give carpenters 16 cents over the next two years, bringing the hourly wage to $3.

other provisions remain unchanged, "creates stability in the industry," exchange president George Farmer said.

"The contractors won't have to worry about strikes. They'll know what their costs are going to be," he said.

There will be stability "both for the builder and the carpenter. They both know where they are going," said carpenter's spokesman E. T. Staley, of the Provincial Council of Carpenters.

negotiations were lengthy, they were friendly.

"It speaks well for both sides that there is a successful completion of the agreement," added Mr. Staley.

A month ago, carpenters were considering strike action when negotiations appeared to have bogged down.

The contract is effective from April 1 this year to March 31, 1963. There will be an eight-cent an hour increase on the present $2.84 next April 1, and a further eight cents April 1, 1963.

$2 MILLION STRIKE FUND?

VANCOUVER (CP)—The buildup of a separate $2,000,000 strike fund through an extra $4 a month assessment on membership is proposed in a Duncan resolution to be put before the western conference of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA).

The proposal by local 1-80 embracing IWA workers in central Vancouver Island said the extra $4 assessment should be separate from the present $1-a-month strike fund assessment. However, the latter would remain in effect.

JOE MORRIS
... asks "social tornado"

LOGGERS GIVE WARNING

Unemployment Near 'National Disaster'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Joe Morris, western president of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA), warned today that with the working force increasing more rapidly than job opportunities, "the stage is set for a major national disaster."

In a keynote address to the opening session of the four-day IWA western regional convention, Morris told delegates from Saskatchewan, Alberta and B.C. that "chronic mass unemployment remains and is likely to grow worse."

Workers must unite in a vigorous campaign to combat this situation but it would require "something in the nature of social tornado to impress upon our governments the simple fact that the wastage of unemployment is more costly than measures to cure it."

The western president suggested that the New Democratic Party, with an appropriate constitution and policy, perhaps could provide this "social tornado."

Disastrous forest fires this summer brought a warning to government and the people and on all sides "experienced loggers ask why was not greater attention given to fire prevention instead of relying upon a hurried improvisation of fire fighting methods which failed to control the situation when numerous and large-scale fires were actually raging."

CASTRO URGES CUBANS TO LEARN RUSSIAN

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro said today Cubans must start learning the Russian language.

Addressing the windup of a four-day national congress against illiteracy, Castro said he had asked the Soviet Union to supply 100 professors to teach the language to 2,000 Cuban teachers.

Castro said English must also be learned because there will be "social changes in English-speaking countries."

But at the moment, Castro added, Russian is the most important tongue "because the Soviet Union is in front in science."

Daring Leap Marks Escape Of Berliners

BERLIN (AP) — A daring firemen's net rescue of two women and a child from East Berlin was disclosed today.

A 21-year-old West Berliner enlisted the help of seven comrades to rescue his wife, two-year-old son and his mother-in-law.

The trio was trapped in a house on Waldemarstrasse after the East Berlin Communists sealed side of the street from the U.S. sector. In houses straddling the border, the East Germans bricked up windows and doors on lower floors.

The West Berliner and his comrades stitched together a round net and showed up in the street last Monday night.

The grandmother leaped first, about 20 feet, to a safe landing in the net.

A woman in charge of the block of flats tried to stop the wife and child and screamed for police.

The young man scaled a rainpipe, held the woman as his wife leaped and then jumped with the child just as the East German police burst into the building from the rear.

BID FOR SUPREME COURT

Bill 43 Challenge May Be Continued

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada may be asked to decide whether British Columbia's 18-month-old anti-picketing legislation represents an "invalid restriction on the freedom of speech."

The issue arises from the case of Hercy Kohn, a man restrained by court injunction from patrolling the sidewalk in front of a downtown Vancouver construction project carrying a sign which said: "Non-union men are working here."

Kohn was sometimes accompanied by an unidentified companion. There was no evidence whether either belonged to a union.

The B.C. Court of Appeal recently held by a 4-1 majority that although the statement published by Kohn was true and no common law wrong had been committed, his action is forbidden by a provision of the 1960 B.C. Trade Unions Act, known as Bill 43.

Kohn's counsel, T. G. Berger, says it is hoped it will be possible to take the case to the Supreme Court of Canada for final ruling.

In the majority judgment of the Court of Appeals, Mr. Justice C. W. Tysoe said Kohn's act in walking up and down, sometimes with a companion, amounted to more than giving out information.

"It was, in my opinion, a means of persuading, or endeavouring to persuade persons not to do some of the things set out."

He said that if the legislation infringed incidentally on the freedom of speech, it would still be valid because its "pith and substance" was a matter within the competence of the provincial legislature — "property and civil rights."

INCIDENTAL EFFECT

"The subsection is in no way directed to the suppression of free speech, albeit it may have the incidental effect of limiting what one person may say of, or about another and his business," he said.

Mr. Justice Norris dissented.

The effect of the Court of Appeal majority judgment is to continue the injunction obtained by the affected construction company until trial of its civil suit against Kohn.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four persons had been nominated to succeed the late Dr. A. E. (Dale) Grauer as chancellor of the University of B.C. when nominations closed at midnight Tuesday.

They are Mrs. Frank Ross, wife of B.C.'s last lieutenant-governor; Mrs. H. F. Angus, wife of the chairman of the Public Utilities Commission; Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission and Dr. Leon Koerner, chairman of Rayonier Canada Ltd. and well-known university benefactor.

The nominees have four days in which to withdraw their names. If more than one allows his name to stand, the university convocation will vote for a chancellor Nov. 28.

Dr. Koerner said immediately he would not accept his nomination.

Dr. Keenleyside said he has not decided whether to let his name stand. Mrs. Angus said she would accept her nomination and Mrs. Ross, returning from a trip to eastern Canada, was not immediately available for comment.

$10 MILLION DEAL FOR CMS

Lead Barter Deal Finalized

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States agriculture department has completed a deal under which it will accept Canadian and Australian pig lead in exchange for surplus U.S. farm products to be shipped to various world markets. In return, the lead-producing firms have agreed to reduce production by about 20 per cent.

The U.S. farm products include tobacco, feed grains, rice and some dairy products, such as butter, cheese and dry skimmed milk. These will go to such countries as Japan, Italy, Portugal, Peru and other importers, with care taken to make sure shipments do not destroy normal commercial markets, officials said today.

In the Canadian part of the barter deal—first of its kind—the agriculture department will accept about 35,000 tons of lead valued at about $10,000,000 from the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, shipped from Trail, B.C. Officials said the Canadian company had pledged to reduce over-all production by some 20 per cent of its 1960 output in an effort to reduce world surpluses and help stabilize world prices.

The officials said the lead producers technically become owners of the surplus United States farm products, and thus have responsibility for their resale. But in fact arrangements have been worked out in most instances under which United States brokers have already negotiated deals with importers, with payment being made either in United States funds or the currency of the importing country.

KEEP LEAD STORED

Shipments of the Canadian lead now are being made. It will be stored for emergency use at various United States communities.

The agriculture department also has agreed to accept about 45,000 tons of Australian lead valued at some $8,000,000 with the Australian firm also agreeing to reduce production by 20 per cent.

The complex arrangement is an outgrowth of a world lead conference at Mexico City last March when the United States—which limits commercial imports through fixed quotas—offered to barter surplus farm items for surplus lead provided lead producers agreed to limit production. So far only the Canadian and Australian firms agreed to do so. But American officials said they expected to complete a few small barter deals with other firms later.

Five-Hour Appeal By Expelled Unionist

MONTREAL (CP) — By an almost unanimous vote, delegates to the national convention of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CBRTG) Tuesday night, upheld the expulsion of a former Toronto local leader from the union.

The vote was taken after Larry Stockwell, former chairman of CBRTG Local 26, had spoken for more than five hours in an appeal against his expulsion which culminated in an all-out personal attack on CBRTG president J. J. (Bill) Smith.

Stockwell, who has been feuding with the national leadership for almost two years, used such phrases as "ruthless demagogue," "blunderer," "despot," "tyrant" and "dangerously stupid" in his attack on Smith.

At the end, scarcely a score of some 425 delegates present supported Stockwell's position against the leadership.

Stockwell's quarrel with the national executive began several years ago and was given fresh fuel in the past year when he objected to the union's official support of the New Democrat Party.

CALM RETURNS TO BRAZIL

Goulart Organizes New Gov't

BRASILIA (AP) — Vice-President Joao Goulart began talks today with a wide range of political leaders to organize a new government for Brazil. Some were reported urging a coalition regime to give a voice to all parties.

Although the date for his inauguration as a figurehead president has not yet been fixed, Goulart landed Tuesday night at Brazil's modern capital in the interior after his personal safety had been assured and military chiefs dropped their active opposition.

Goulart, assailed by military leaders as a dangerous leftist, will take over the position but not the power relinquished by Janio Quadros, who resigned as president Aug. 25.

Quadros' resignation caught Goulart on his way home from a visit to Communist China, and the heads of the army, navy, and air force said they would not let him return to the presidency. Civil war threatened between pro-Goulart troops and civillians in South Brazil and the rest of the country's armed forces, but the military chiefs gave way after Congress transferred most of the presidential powers to a premier responsible to Congress.

Goulart's major function as president will be to pick the premier who then must be approved by Congress.

Arriving from Porto Alegre, capital of his home state of Rio Grande do Sul, Goulart praised the new parliamentary system.

"I think it will calm people and pave the way for the establishment of an ideal regime," he told reporters.

After a warm welcome at the airport from almost every civilian dignitary in the capital—the military leaders had quietly left town—Goulart drove to a farm he owns 36 miles from Brasilia.

He was accompanied by Ranieri Mazzilli, president of the chamber of deputies and interim president of Brazil since Quadros' resignation, and Senate President Auro Moura Andrade.

dozen explosions before the series ends.

White House secretary Salin said he did not give details on why Kennedy made his decision at this time. Other sources offered this combination of reasons:

1. By its quick reaction, the U.S. is serving notice on Russia that it will not give in to Moscow's "atomic blackmail" pressure on Berlin or other issues.

2. By delaying longer, the U.S. would have come under increasing pressure from neutrals abroad and at the United Nations to continue to hold back on testing indefinitely regardless of Russian actions.

3. The U.S. had scored what major initial propaganda gains it could from the Russians' breaking the moratorium, although the impact against Moscow disappointed U.S. expectations. Now Washington will stress that U.S. blasts produce no fallout and that the Communists were the first to resume testing.

4. Premier Khrushchev, by failing to halt the Soviet tests after Sunday's U.S.-British appeal, showed he does not intend to agree to a test ban.

Senator Henry Jackson said today he is more than ever convinced that the Russians have been conducting underground nuclear tests during the moratorium.

Jackson, Washington State Democrat, is a member of the joint congressional atomic energy committee.

LONDON (CP) — The British government today defended President Kennedy's decision to resume U.S. nuclear tests but said it has no plans to resume British testing.

A government spokesman said "in view of the third Russian test Tuesday this American decision is perfectly understandable."

He added: "We have no plan at present for the resumption of tests."

British officials said they still hope for Soviet agreement to end tests in the atmosphere. But they tended to discount the possibility of serious negotiations at the Geneva nuclear tests conference when it meets again Saturday.

A French government spokesman also said his government gave its full approval to Kennedy's decision.

But Japan will lodge a strong protest with Washington against the test resumption.

Officials of the Japanese foreign ministry said today that the protest in the form of a verbal note would be made through Japanese Ambassador Koichiro Asaka.

U.S. Decision Not Surprising

British newspapers said the resumption of American tests came as no surprise in view of Tuesday's third Soviet test within a week.

The Times commented: "Clearly the United States decision is regarded as not surprising in view of the announcement last night of yet another Russian test."

"Nor do they cancel the joint Anglo-American offer made on Sunday not to conduct atmospheric tests of any sort."

The Times, however, saw little hope of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev accepting the U.S.-British offer for a three-power ban on atmospheric tests.

Moscow radio Tuesday night in its first mention of the Anglo-American offer indirectly rejected it by saying the "Western governments' position of the free world."

U.S. Decision Not Surprising

right to perfect thermonuclear weapons by means of underground tests.

The Daily Herald said the resumption of Soviet tests made the "American resumption sooner or later almost inevitable."

The Daily Express carried a headline eight columns across the front page saying: "Do not let Khrushchev worry you."

It said Khrushchev was "behaving like a heavyweight with a lethal knockout punch who knows for certain that if he lets fly with it he will be knocked out, too."

In Wellington, N.Z., Prime Minister Keith Holyoake said: "Since the Soviet Union is clearly seeking to establish nuclear preponderance for itself, the U.S. has little option but to look to its defensive position which is the defensive position of the free world."

U.S. Decision Not Surprising

Observers at the summit conference of non-aligned states in Belgrade said there was a tendency in conference circles to condemn both Russia and the U.S. equally.

They said it was feared that the U.S. announcement would induce the Russians to take further military measures, thus increasing world tension.

Members of the U.S. Congress who commented on Kennedy's decision were unanimous in endorsing it.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said that the president "had no choice but

Back to Dog-Eat-Dog

WITH RESUMPTION OF nuclear-testing by both East and West, the world is right back where it was three years ago — unrestricted experimental nuclear bomb explosions with all that they imply in lethal fall-out and in build-up of ever-more destructive weapons of war.

The Russians have set off three bombs in the atmosphere within a few hours of their announcement that the voluntary ban was off. The United States will retaliate by setting up a program of underground bomb tests, which may provide the technical information required without the danger of radioactive fall-out in the atmosphere.

It appears that both sides were eager to resume testing, and each delayed, hoping that the other would start first. Russia broke the ban, despite the adverse effects this was bound to have on world opinion. The United States has heaped what benefit it can from this development, but will now follow suit.

The Soviet Union's stated reasons for resuming tests include the charges that the United States has been preparing further tests, that the West has been concentrating on banning atmospheric tests while seeking to exempt underground and space tests from the ban, that only "universal and total disarmament" can be effective.

The United States' given reason is that since Russia has resumed, then it is necessary in the interests of national safety to keep abreast in defence by also staging tests.

But the men and women of East and West will look at these statements with a critical eye. What will strike them most forcibly is that they and their children, even those yet unborn, are again under the threat of radioactive contamination—the build-up of lethal substances in the air and on the earth's surface which may find their way into the food and bodies of human beings.

Scientists still argue about the danger level of radiation: how much the body can tolerate, how much will cause physical deterioration, how much is required for mutation of the human seed, how much will cause death. The men, women and children of the world don't want any of it.

They know that existing nuclear bombs are more than sufficient to wipe out whole nations and perhaps the world. Larger, more powerful ones, are not needed. And in the process of acquiring larger, unneeded bombs they do not want to run the risk of race suicide.

Mr. Khrushchev, in his loud demand for total disarmament or nothing, carefully overlooks the fact that it was because of the impossibility of achieving total disarmament, or even partial disarmament, that an effort was made to regulate at least the terrible new area of nuclear weapons. That effort lasted three years and has now been abruptly terminated by Mr. Khrushchev himself.

Where do we go from here? It is obvious that if one side develops more powerful nuclear bombs the other side must feel the necessity to keep up. But it is equally obvious that prolonged testing will eventually result in a cumulative poisoning of the earth.

Ban-the-bomb movements make sense only if they are applied to both sides of the cold war—there is no point in banning just some of the bombs, particularly if this leaves Mr. Khrushchev in full control through superior nuclear strength. At the moment he is using all his strength in an effort to terrorize the world—the fencing off of East Berlin, the announcement of a super-bomb, the reminders to various visiting statesmen that he has the bombs with which he could obliterate their countries, and now the resumption of bomb tests.

These are power plays for a direct objective yet to be revealed. They do not jibe with earlier talk of co-existence, of economic and industrial rivalry between nations, of concern for the backward nations of the world. Mr. Khrushchev's smiling teeth have suddenly become bared fangs.

Vindication for Mr. Fulton

A PART FROM THE GENERAL argument of power policy one interesting little fact should be remembered—but seems to have been forgotten, especially by Mr. Bennett. Months ago, Mr. Davie Fulton, chief negotiator of the Columbia treaty, estimated that downstream electricity from that river could be delivered in Canada for substantially less than 4 mills per kilowatt hour.

Mr. Bennett scoffed at that figure. The federal government, he said, had made no adequate engineering studies on the Columbia and didn't know what it was talking about.

Yet the impartial engineers employed by the provincial Energy Board absolutely confirm Mr. Fulton's statement. In fact, they think that Columbia power, at 3.61 mills, would be somewhat cheaper than Mr. Fulton estimated. And even this figure could be lowered by including flood control benefits.

Only when the Energy Board revised its engineers' figures by leaving out several vital factors was it possible to estimate the cost of downstream power at 4.03 mills—the figure which Mr. Strachan calls a "confidence trick" and "a shocking example of deliberate deception practised upon the legislature and the people."

Whatever one may think about the Energy Board and its obvious loyalty to Mr. Bennett, the fact remains that Mr. Fulton has been vindicated and the Premier's reckless criticism of him disproved.

Bad Boys and the TUC

IT APPEARED CERTAIN THAT the Trades Union Congress, currently meeting in Portsmouth, would endorse its executive's decision to expel the Communist-dominated Electrical Trades Union.

The latter had been told to clean house by a judge who found its Communist leaders guilty of ballot-rigging in the election of officers. The Electrical Trades Union declined, or at least the Communist leaders in it were strong enough to avoid a wholesale shake-up.

Having threatened legal action against expulsion, those same leaders have seen their bluff called on that score and have reconciled themselves to working outside the T.U.C.

How will they work? Mr. Frank Foulkes, president of the union, has given the warning that he will look around at the industries in which electricians are represented and will see that they make immediate applications for wage increases.

This is an old device by the Communist leaders of the union. They have succeeded on other occasions in forcing wages up and have enjoyed substantial support among non-Communist union members who have benefited from the increases.

The mere fact that the Macmillan government is doing its utmost to avoid rising wages for a short period while the nation's economy improves, means nothing to Mr. Foulkes. Why should it? The job of the Communist is to keep industrial conditions strategically disturbed in democratic countries. If he can win friends by claiming higher pay packets for workers at the same time, so much the better for him and the cause he serves.

Unfair Life-Saving

MEMBERS OF THE CANADIAN bar, in convention at Winnipeg, evidently think there is something sneaky about using radar speed traps on highways without warning. Except for two dissenting British Columbia delegates, they were against the use of radar to catch speeders unless the speeders were notified that the radar system was operating.

But the end result of the radar traps should be taken into account in judging them. What is their purpose? To cut down on faster-than-legal highway speeds and so save the lives of drivers and passengers. Warning the driver that "big brother's" radar eye is watching him is only another way of doing the job.

And is setting up an unannounced radar trap any more sneaky than setting up a warning sign—but not setting up the radar? If police will stoop that low to save motorists' lives, how low should motorists stoop to accomplish the same thing?

THE SCHOOLYARD KALEIDOSCOPE

By B. A. TOBIN

Nothing Ever Quite Equals the First Day

IT'S a great day—the First Day back. It's one of the things about school that doesn't seem to change with changing theories about curricula and pedagogy.

And it doesn't change with the architecture—the little red school house, the big red brick city school or the modern one-storey panel-and-glass extendables have all been the background for the annual fall event. It's a familiar play, for some. For others it's the first time on stage. But the cues are known, the lines are remembered and the players are costumed for their parts.

There is a great show of shined shoes, among the younger male fry. "School boots"—which within a matter of days, even hours, will be thoroughly scuffed and colorless clumps, are displayed in all their gleaming glory.

Back to Earth

The stiff soles, and the knowledge that they're new, give a jaunty walk to the wearers, as feet that have flopped nakedly or in sneakers all summer feel the pressure of discipline.

The pride of an earlier era used to be the sporting of long pants on a first high-school day. That delayed delight has been lost in these times. Grade I pupils can be seen in long; they will never know the pleasure of promotion to adult attire.

But the pants are brave in creases—this first and their last. The jeans, slacks, tweeds and other weaves sport a sharp edge fore and aft. The evidence is slightly erased after the first hour of knees under a desk, slightly more removed after a scuffle or two in the school yard and an accidental fall, and pretty bedraggled by home-going time although still well in evidence.

By the end of the second day, and certainly of the third, the glamor of a crease has worn off. It's just too much bother to worry about it. From then on bags and wrinkles are the style—and it's universal, the school yard pants all seem to age at about the same rate.

The new sweaters, the new windbreakers, the new jackets all have their day. They last a little better than the trousers, but their fate is inescapable. They, too, will get wet, muddy, dusty and grass-stained.

After the first day or two of hanging them up at home, they will be tossed in a corner without a thought, and the creases and worn spots will testify to their rough life. At the appropriate time they will serve, rolled up, as first base, as a sack for books, as a cushion on rocky ground.

They may never be thrown across a muddy spot to spare the dainty foot of some lady, but they will certainly look as though they had—and not for one lady but an army of Amazons.

And so on upward to the new shirt and the new tie. These enjoy their brief hours as novelties, then endure their weeks as necessary accoutrements.

Lastly, the brushed, slicked hair, which may even persist as far as the classroom, but will certainly never make it to lunchtime. The freedom of summer holidays is much too recent, much too much a part of the wearer's daily habits, to permit him to endure for long so soon the niceties of winter civilization.

The pupils clustered around the "Girls' Door" are a slightly different phenomenon. Their hair-dos are painfully exact, their new dresses crisp and spotless, their shoes the finest examples of the craftsman's art it was possible to get.

Lasting Beauty

The difference is that a good many of them will stay that way. There will be a slight let-down in the competition, of course, as the young contestants evaluate their opposition and find their place in the organization. But surprisingly, many of these dresses will appear day after day in excellent condition. The shoes may wear a bit, but will be replaced with even more admirable examples of fabric and fashion, and the coiffures will vary to meet the whim of style or of the wearer.

One might almost think that for the female of the species every day is a First Day. And perhaps in some respects it is.

Chief Irritant: The Voice of Freedom

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND, from Berlin

Ulrich that they would put its removal on the agenda of negotiation with the West.

Let's not throw away RIAS for nothing. In fact, let's not throw away RIAS for anything. I doubt that President Kennedy intends to do so.

Let us not be tempted into the mistake of believing that abandoning RIAS would reduce by one iota the Soviet threat to Western rights in West Berlin. It wouldn't. It would only mean that we would be abandoning our only effective communication with the otherwise nearly totally isolated East German people and depriving by our own action the morale of West Berlin.

The very violence of the East German attack on RIAS is evidence of its effectiveness. During the week I have been in Berlin, RIAS has been the target of Communist vituperation, describing it as the "swamp flower of the U.S. government" and accusing it of being "inducer of youths to become

"incendiaries" and as "director of the NATO spies."

I have examined the RIAS programs in detail and they contain no appeal to the East Germans to revolt, no call to arms.

They are provocative if factual reporting of the news and calm expression of Western views are provocative. They are provocative only if it is provocative to report to the East Germans news and views they cannot get elsewhere.

Now that the border has been sealed by Khrushchev, the work of RIAS is more necessary and more wanted by the East Germans than before. It is a revealing fact that RIAS is receiving more letters from East German listeners now than before travel to West Berlin was banned.

No German radio station has the kilowatt strength under the Amsterdam Treaty to reach East Germany effectively. RIAS is needed, as the Western voice of freedom. We ought not to let Khrushchev talk us or threaten us out of it.

Super Hitlerism

By JOSEPH ALSOP

IF the Soviet decision to test a 100-megaton nuclear bomb has a strictly military meaning, it most probably means that there is a weak point somewhere in the existing Soviet military machine. The point is, that bombs of 20 to 25 megatons, such as the United States has long possessed, are more than powerful enough to destroy any existing targets, if delivered with reasonable accuracy.

The Soviets also have bombs of comparable power. But they may feel they need a much larger bomb, because they have no confidence in the accuracy of their rocket delivery system. A near-miss with 25 megatons would be a direct hit with 100 megatons.

Or the Soviets may consider that they have not got enough long-range rockets, and may wish to remedy this deficiency with larger warheads.

Target Allowance

An allowance of three 25-megaton rockets per essential target, to insure target destruction while guarding against malfunction and misguidance, could perhaps be reduced to an allowance of two rockets per target with the new warhead.

There are other such possibilities. There is also the possibility that the Soviet general staff has taken note of the theory of nuclear deterrence which has been adopted by Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara.

This theory calls for a deterrent which will be formidable primarily because it will be invulnerable, being dug into hardened rocket-silos too strong for the enemy to destroy. McNamara's plans were made on the basis of existing Soviet warheads. The new, 100-megaton Soviet warheads will make hash of these plans.

But if this last and most probable Soviet explanation is the correct one, the timing of the Soviet decision is certainly not militarily motivated. After all, McNamara's hardened, invulnerable deterrent will not even begin to be ready for another two years.

There is no need now, or in the near future, for bigger bombs to defeat McNamara's plans. Thus there was nothing to prevent putting off the 100-megaton nuclear test—thus forcing the U.S. to become the scapegoat for renewed nuclear testing.

On these assumptions, the Soviets have resumed nuclear testing at this time with a national but long-range military aim, but with an immediate political aim as well. The political aim was to inspire terror. And they aimed to inspire terror because Khrushchev is using terror-tactics in the Berlin crisis.

World Opinion

No doubt Khrushchev would have preferred the United States to test first, thus taking the blame from whom was called world opinion. It would have suited Khrushchev very well to hear Jawaharlal Nehru furiously denouncing the U.S. for carefully safeguarded American underground nuclear tests, and then to frighten Nehru into a totally glibulous condition with his own 100-megaton above-ground test.

But if Khrushchev could not have it both ways, he could at least make the Nehrus of this world more glibulous. And that is what he is doing. This should not surprise anyone, either, for Khrushchev has been using Hitler tactics throughout the whole present phase of the Berlin crisis.

If the Western leadership were not so bemused by the conventions of old-fashioned diplomacy, Khrushchev's Hitler tactics in the Berlin crisis would be much better understood by now, and the bomb test announcement would have caused less surprise.

But the ugliest episodes, prior to the new bomb-test, have been ostensibly private conversations, like Khrushchev's talk with the British ambassador in Moscow, Sir Frank Roberts, and his talk with Italian Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani.

The great feature of these conversations, and of the other talks he has had with other representatives of NATO nations, has been the casual Khrushchevian mention of the number of Soviet bombs needed to destroy the country of his conversational partner.

Shock Transmission

He has used these men, in fact, as diplomatic shock-transmitters. More recently, he used Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana in the same manner. But he did not deal in bomb numbers with Nkrumah, since he was using the Ghana leader to transmit a shock to the conference of neutralists at Belgrade.

Instead Khrushchev told Nkrumah that neutralism was not a safe refuge, and that even the most ostentatiously neutral nations would also be destroyed, or at least fearfully damaged by another world conflict. Nkrumah dutifully carried this message to the Belgrade meeting.

In Hitler's best manner, Khrushchev has also been punctuating his military threats with occasional professions of sweet reasonableness. One such was his declaration to Drew Pearson that he longed to be friends with President Kennedy, if the president would only just give him Berlin and everything else he wanted, first.

But the threats have been growing louder and more unrestrained, and the reasonable interludes have been more and more widely spaced.

The Soviet Ministry of Defence announcement of two months of air, naval and rocket troop manoeuvres in the Far Russian North, "with the actual use of various types of modern weapons," is an even more sinister sign than the Soviet resumption of nuclear tests. This is not just Hitlerism. This is super-Hitlerism.

Every Prospect Pleases Whom?

OUR visitor from London spent the three summer months with us. He couldn't have chosen a better year. One day of golden sunshine followed another.

He came by ship from Southampton and by train across Canada. The size of the country amazed him. The great stretches of the Prairies and the rugged heights of the Rockies left him with indelible impressions.

While he was here he managed a number of short scenic side-trips. He saw beauty spots on the island, parks and Butchart's. He took day-excursions among the Gulf Islands and part way up the Fraser Valley.

Before he left I asked him what had pleased him most.

He thought for a while and admitted uncertainty. He wasn't sure whether he preferred sitting on the boathouse verandah looking across the Strait at the Olympics, or resting on the shore at Shawnigan and admiring the green of the islands and the surrounding hills.

But he liked virtually everything he saw. And he was particularly taken with Victoria. To him it seemed an ideal town, comfortable and full of friendly people.

I was a little surprised that he hadn't found us a bit reserved. But maybe we have so many Prairie people here now that we've absorbed some of the human warmth. I've always associated with folk living east of the Rockies as far as Winnipeg.

His general impressions were highly flattering to British Columbia's capital.

A few days after he'd departed, I talked with an old Victorian. He has lived here about half a century.

And now, says the old Victorian, this city is about as hateful as settlements come. It isn't a city. It hasn't a city's higness. It has outgrown the pleasant, leisurely hominess of a small town and is struggling like an old-time adolescent to be grown up in his first serge suit with long trousers.

There are, said the old Victorian, too many people here trying to make a fast buck. They think only of themselves.

The city hasn't got anything but a relatively decent climate and a natural setting that it's busy trying to spoil. It doesn't turn out first-class people.

We haven't developed any top-notch artists, the old-timer said, and we're not creating the atmosphere in which they are produced.

"Cheapjack, gimmicky, tacky. They ought to saw it off at Goldstream and let it float away." He shouted, made a sound like clearing his throat and that topic of conversation lay dead.

I have wondered what he would have replied had I said all this. Quite conceivably he would have defended Victoria even more vigorously than he criticized it.

And I have wondered, also, how my town could seem a veritable Xanadu to a visitor from London and a spiritual outhouse to an old Victorian.

Perhaps they both had points. We have that nice smug feeling in Victoria that we have something special in the way of cities. We tell our guests to enjoy those features of it which appeal to us. But, in moments of rare frankness, we do occasionally confess that it isn't all it might be. The virulence of the old Victorian is partly justified.

The city could be a whole lot better than it is, but it won't be unless we who live here improve it. The necessary improvements won't be measured in terms of good roads and concrete sidewalks, valuable as they are in a practical way. They will include the restoration of a certain spirit the old town used to have and which doesn't seem to be as universally respected as it should be now.

We can't depend entirely on climate. All our summers aren't like last June, July and August. And we'd better keep a close watch on our scenery. It isn't imperishable by any means.

Strong Winds Moisture Robbers

The strong winds over the weekend caught most of us with our stakes down and there is little we can do now except clean up the mess. It is bad enough when plants which have almost finished flowering are laid flat, but it is almost heart-breaking to have branches torn from fall asters and chrysanthemums before they have a chance to make their display.

When gathering up the broken parts it is sometimes helpful to the remainder of the plant if the break is trimmed with a sharp knife. A clean cut heals faster than a jagged break and it increases the chance of getting a few flowers at least.

In addition to mechanical damage, strong winds take moisture from the foliage and create a condition similar to drought.

As the rapidly moving air crosses the surfaces of the leaves it picks up the natural moisture, and the plants struggle to replace it as fast as it is removed.

Before long a rush order is sent to the roots for an increased supply of water, and unless this is immediately available the reserve within the plants is soon depleted to a point where wilting of the foliage is clearly evident.

The rainfall to date has been barely enough to moisten the surface, and certainly not enough to penetrate six inches of soil to where the roots are feeding. Therefore we can do a lot towards re-establishing our wind-beaten fall flowers by keeping them well watered when the air starts moving from one place to another in a great hurry.

De Gaulle Speech Gets Cold Press

PARIS (Reuters) — Some French newspapers today gave a cool reception to President de Gaulle's press conference Tuesday, criticizing him for making "obscure" statements.

De Gaulle, addressing his sixth press conference since becoming president in June, 1958, warned that weakness and division among the Western powers would only spur the Soviet Union on to an attack.

For the present, he said, "the Western powers have no better means of serving the peace of the world than to remain firm."

The Daily Express said de Gaulle had performed a service for the West by taking "the level-headed view of a soldier" by warning that "after a nuclear war Russia's leaders would rule over a dead nation."

Red Cross blood donor clinics will be held here today and Thursday in an effort to replenish stocks of type "O" negative.

A large amount of this type of blood will be required at a local hospital Thursday when a man will undergo surgery to bypass a blockage in his main blood vessel.

First session was to be held between 2:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. today. Next one is set for 7 p.m. to 9:30 tonight.

The sessions will be repeated Thursday.

CEASE-FIRE TALKS SLOW

Clashes Continue in Laos; Could Spark All-Out War

By PETER SIMMS

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)

Military activity in Laos at present is restricted to occasional patrol clashes. One of them could be the spark that sets off a new war in Laos before the end of the year.

The three high commands—right-wing Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, neutralist Capt. Kong Le, and pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong—ordered troops to stop fighting on May 3. But all have been re-equipping their troops, bringing up new supplies and resting and training their forces.

Meanwhile, at the Ban Namone peace talks, a military sub-committee formed by the three delegations has failed to reach any agreement on ground rules for the cease-fire. One difficulty is that in the guerrilla-type fighting there are no clear lines between the territories held by the different forces.

There are only six places in the whole country where the positions of opposing forces on May 3 are clearly defined. Elsewhere there are only large grey areas where patrols of both sides probe and cross, claiming them as their own.

Also across the country are scattered posts and areas in the mountains where forces, supplied from the air, hold out.

MORALE RISES

Morale has risen among Phoumi's troops and civilians. Among some Vientiane officials and responsible civilians, there is a growing feeling that if war breaks out again, it would give the army a chance to win back a lot of ground lost at the beginning of the year.

The government has stressed determination to find a peaceful solution, but Western diplomats fear that another incident, such as that when Pathet Lao and Kong Le forces seized the Meo mountain stronghold of Padong in June, might be the spark that would set off a new round of war.

This is not likely to happen until the rains end in October or November and the rice harvest has been brought in.

All three factions say the problem of the cease-fire will be automatically solved when a coalition government has been formed.

This may be true, but progress has been markedly slow in that direction.

Anxiety, Fear, Horror Expressed by Japanese

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's reaction to Russia's resumption of nuclear testing has been a mixture of "highly emotional anxiety, fear and horror."

They are the emotions of a country that has not totally awakened from the nightmare of the United States atom bombs that fell on Hiroshima and Nagasaki 16 years ago.

The Japanese don't want testing of any kind—in the atmosphere or underground—and the United States decision to resume testing also can be expected to raise Japanese emotions to a higher pitch.

Already the Japanese foreign office has urged the U.S. not to carry out its plans for resumption of tests underground and in the laboratory. Previously it had protested the Soviet tests.

Anyone who has not seen an atom-seared girl, a twisted child or maimed man or woman may find it hard to understand Japanese fears and anxieties. Much of the bitterness that followed the U.S. wartime bombs has died down. But the Japanese are fervently intent on preventing a third bomb being dropped here or anywhere.

SOURCE OF DANGER

They see the resumption of nuclear testing, by whatever country, as a source of new danger not only of war but of sickness and disease from radioactive fallout.

Japan, the only country to feel the direct horror of the atom bomb, is the most heavily affected by fallout from testing both in the Pacific and in Eastern Russia.

The new Soviet tests touched off a flood of calls to the Japanese central meteorological observatory for reports on fallout which "could further affect already contaminated milk, meat and vegetable supplies."

Almost all political ranks have united in protest against the Soviet decision.

Dr. Toshiyuki Kumatori, of the Radiation Research Institute, said: "The coming rains will, of course, contain radioactivity from the Soviet tests. It may not be felt very soon. But if it accumulates in human bodies over the years, it will have an ill effect on our posterity."

Dr. Kumatori's fears are reflected through the country.

The mayor of Hiroshima summed up Japanese feeling: "Our great fear of the atomic bomb is not because we have experienced it, but because the people of the world do not understand how dreadful it is, because it occurred in a small dot of the world."

SOVIET ACTION IN TWO WEEKS SAYS BRANDT

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt today said the world must expect new Soviet action in Berlin within two weeks. He did not say what steps he thought the Communists would take.

"The trouble over Berlin hasn't finished," he said. "When the Soviets make the next move, we shouldn't be taken by surprise again."

Speaking to a meeting of a group calling itself "Indivisible Germany," Brandt said that on August 13 the Soviet bloc let East Germany annex East Berlin and thus destroy Allied responsibility for all of Berlin. "By a kick of his boot Soviet Premier Khrushchev removed Allied rights in all Berlin," Brandt told the group, which stands for German reunification.

Brandt said that West Berlin's existence depended on its links with West Germany, adding: "The Soviets are out to sever these existing connections."

WHEN U.S. RESUMES TESTS

Tactical Weapons First

WASHINGTON (AP) — Relatively small warheads for battlefield nuclear weapons may be the first tested under President Kennedy's go-ahead orders.

The defense department and Atomic Energy Commission were silent on test plans.

But military officials suggested today that tactical nuclear weapons ranging from the explosive equivalent of 100 tons of TNT to 20,000 tons of TNT soon may be tried underground in Nevada.

Among these are warheads for bombardment rockets like the Honest John, Little John, La Crosse, Corporal and Sergeant, the Davy Crockett bazooka-like weapon and a nuclear shell for the eight-inch howitzer.

U.S. forces facing the Russians in Europe are armed with the 75-mile range Corporal and the 12-mile range Honest John, among others. Many of the growing family of U.S. battlefield atomic weapons have become operational since the test moratorium went into effect nearly three years ago.

Sources said military experts know what these low range weapons can do, profiting from general nuclear experimentation before the suspension set in and relying on paper calculations. U.S. scientists have tested below ground nuclear devices up to 20,000 tons in TNT equivalent.

There was obvious value in actually testing the warheads themselves. Certain quarters in the Pentagon long have contended the United States should resume testing. They argued this was needed for development of new weapons in a time of rapidly changing technology and to stay ahead of the Russians whom some U.S. military officials believe were testing on the sly.

The conclusion that the three Russian tests of the last week were in the low and medium range of power—rather than the superpowerful million-ton bracket—gave support to the belief that the Soviet Union may be pushing to match the United States in mobile, quick-trigger solid-fuel missiles like the U.S. Minuteman ICBM and the submarine-launched Polaris.

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The 1961 Walker Cup debate is history now. The British were buried, 11-1, by United States' top amateurs, but, despite that, one of golf's most famous tournaments proved entertaining, educational and interesting.

MARTIN CHRISTMAS

If the landslide didn't impress you, other things did. Like, for example, the noisy, hot-dog hucksters hard by the 12th green. They banged their pots hardest and grunted loudest when the playing chaps were about to putt out. Impressive is the word for the Sargasso Sea that they called "the rough."

The showing of American strength, not by the golfers but by the police, also caught the eye. There were enough uniforms and badges around to control two revolutions in Guatemala as well as the one in Brazil. This, to Seattle's credit, meant a well-behaved gallery.

Also impressive were the youngsters like Jack Nicklaus, Deane Beman, Michael Bonallack and Martin Christmas. Nicklaus belts the ball a country mile. Beman must certainly be one of the game's finest putters if his play in Seattle is an indication of why he happens to be the reigning U.S. Amateur champion.

Bonallack, 26, the British champion, takes a back seat to no one when it comes to controlling wood shots.

Nicklaus Belts Big Shots for Flag

As for Christmas, things could soon get merry in jolly old England if the auld gowd uncovers a few more of his ilk. Nicklaus showed why, at 21, he has already compiled an outstanding golf record. Others may have a more formidable swing, but few can match the accuracy and brute strength he displays in hitting a ball.

When others are moving in on the green with a three or four wood, the Ohio State senior is taking out a three or four iron. He doesn't play just to hit the green, but always picks out the flag for his target, regardless of its position. More often than not, his shots are right on line.

Beman, 23, is only the ninth player in history to hold both the U.S. and British Amateur titles. There is no doubt that his putting—more than anything—helped him earn that distinction.

Dr. George Bigelow and Laurie Carroll, among the many Victorians who took in the matches, both were wowed by his putter. So, too, was JoAnne Gunderson, the two-time women's national amateur champion from Seattle.

"Deane is the finest putter I have ever seen . . . bar none," she said. "I've never seen him putt badly."

It Could Be Matter of Confidence

The British press predicts big things for Bonallack and Christmas. The latter, only 21, is particularly pleasing to watch. His form was one of the best of the 20 players who competed in the matches.

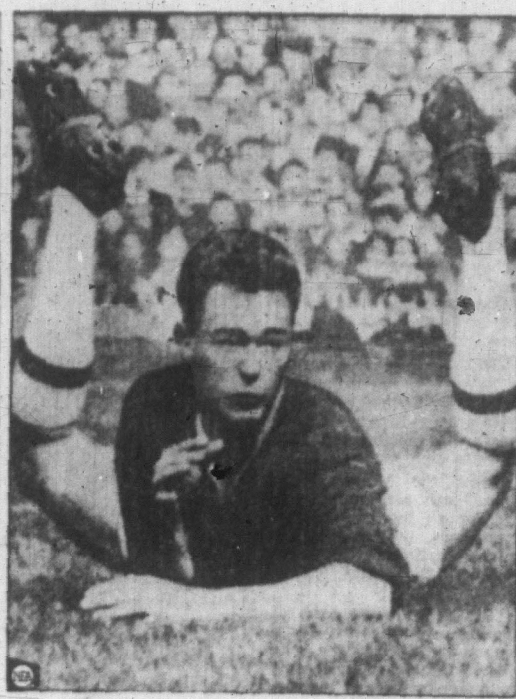

The U.S., with a decided edge in "big guns," deserves to hold the Walker Cup for the 17th time in 18 tries. The Americans, however, are not as overpowering as the 11-1 score indicates.

David Frame, a 26-year-old chartered accountant, thinks "it's all a matter of confidence." The Briton who won three successive Dutch championships (1957-59) said in Seattle, the Americans have a big edge in that department.

"Every two years we look at ourselves and we say we keep getting better. Not that my opinion matters, but I do think we are better."

"I think our matches with France are good examples. The French are getting better every year. But in our matches we know we are going to beat them . . . and they know it."

"It's all a matter of confidence."

Parker, Gilchrist Fatten Point Totals

Edmonton Eskimos' brilliant Jackie Parker and Toronto Argonauts' booming Cookie Gilchrist stand today atop the individual scoring ladder in their respective Canadian football sections.

Parker leads the Western Conference with 52 points, 10 more than teammate Johnny Bright and 16 more than Leo Lewis of Winnipeg.

In the Eastern Conference Gilchrist has 28 points, four more than Gerry McDougall and George Scott of Hamilton and Ron Stewart of Ottawa.

Parker's squeaker of a field goal that gave Edmonton a 10-9 win over Calgary Stampede Monday dramatized his ability at keeping the foot in football.

Quarterback-halfback Parker now has kicked eight field goals in six games for 24 points and also has kicked 16 converts. He leads the league in both departments. The remainder of his total is made up of 12 points from two touchdowns.

Gilchrist, Argonauts' power running fullback and their field goal and convert-kicking ace, is aiming for his third successive scoring title.

The 240-pound backfield star won the scoring crown the last two seasons by his accurate field goal and convert booting, yet for a while this year it looked as though he might not handle the job. Coach Lou Agase gave the job to guard Bill Mitchell while Cookie sat out exhibition games during his holdout for a five-year contract.

Agase was satisfied with Mitchell's kicking until he missed a couple of vital converts. The job was given back to Gilchrist after that and his surge to the top indicates he hasn't lost his touch.

WARRINGTON SIZZLES

Vampires Bask In Track Glory

Fifteen firsts, 14 seconds, six thirds . . . three records set, one Canadian record tied. Those impressive totals were posted by six members of the Victoria Vampire Sports Organization in three track meets on the holiday weekend.

Coach Dave Jones, more than pleased with his runners' performance, outlined this box score:

John Warrington: eight firsts, three seconds, John Edwards: four firsts, two seconds, four thirds, Grant Close: three seconds, Eric Carlson: two firsts, two seconds, Ross Bryant: one first, two seconds, Rick Menzies: one second, two thirds.

EYES LENDS HAND

An addition Lynn Eves, a member of Victoria "Y" who occasionally competes with the Vampires, anchored the Victoria relay team to a second-place finish in a 440 race. Edwards set two records. He ran the midget 440 in 54.4 to establish a meet mark in the Little Olympics on Friday, and covered the midget 880 in 2:05.8 for a British Columbia record in the British Columbia age class championships at Chilliwack on Labor Day.

Warrington ran the 220 in 32.2 at Chilliwack to tie the Canadian record. He has done the distance in 22 flat.

B.C. RECORD

Vampires' relay team—Warrington, Edwards, Carlson and Bryant—set a new British Columbia junior record by running the mile in 3:38. All the boys are juveniles.

Besides the Little Olympics and the British Columbia age class championships, the Vampires competed in the Pacific National Exhibition "All-Comers" meet Saturday at Vancouver. Here, Eves, a member of the Canadian Olympic team, was mildly sensational. He won the 100, 220 and 440, was overshadowed only by a 21-year-old University of Washington student, John Cramer broke the Canadian Open pole vault mark when he soared to 15 feet 2 inches.

Economy Shows Good Recovery

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

While statistics on Canada's economic position always seem to be an unconsciously long time in appearing, the latest index of industrial production—seasonally adjusted—is reassuring in that it confirms a state of accelerated recovery for the first half of the year.

BELL

The index for June reached 122.5, which was 2 per cent above the May figure and well above the recession low of 164 recorded in July last year.

The gain in the index was accomplished despite minor declines in mining and gas and electric utilities, which were more than offset by a 2.8 per cent gain in manufacturing, which previously had been lagging.

The industrial production index in general this year has shown that Canada has been following the strong recovery in the U.S. with a time lag factor of about two months.

And, south of the border, the usually reliable National Association of Purchasing Agents' business survey shows "snap and vitality" after the summer lull, which speaks well for a continuing pickup in Canadian business this fall.

The NAPA reports that the steady upward climb of the U.S. economy, noted since February, appears to be gathering momentum with a strong movement for the better likely within 60 days.

The survey would not go so far as to call it a "boom" but rather a return to normal, healthy business, with only the unsettled labor contracts in the auto business a cloud on the horizon.

Both in Canada and the U.S. there still seems to be resistance to increasing inventories at the present time. However, in the U.S., the push on inventories is expected by the NAPA to begin within 60 days, which could mean that the movement in Canada would follow within another 60 days.

And, in both countries, at least the liquidation of inventory seems to have come to an end in businesses and industries.

A modest upward "push" on prices is reported in the U.S., and it is expected that when unemployment and idle capacity have decreased, the pressure towards higher prices for many commodities will increase.

Fishermen's Earnings Set Mark

The Fisheries Association of B.C. has reported that B.C.'s fishermen made the highest earnings for the month of July this year ever recorded. Total value of fish landed was $13,820,000 and was almost double the figure for last year.

Wisdom of the fishermen in agreeing to a "no-raise" contract for this year is reflected in a substantial reduction in the world market value of sockeye and coho canned salmon.

Heavy production from Japanese and Alaskan canneries has forced the B.C. producers to scale their prices down by 12 per cent a case for sockeye and 10 per cent for coho.

Laurentide Financial Corp. Ltd.—formerly Imperial Investment—of Vancouver, reports a 32 per cent increase in net earnings for the past fiscal year with a 20% boost in dividend rate.

Laurentide has now moved into position as the third-ranking Canadian-owned finance company and is among the top 15 finance companies in North America.

Indecision by Saanich May Kill Phone Service Centre Proposal

Saanich council's indecision on rezoning 10 acres of property at McKenzie and Quadra for light industrial and office use will result in the B.C. Telephone dropping its plans for a $300,000 service centre in the municipality.

This is, in effect, what W. Bruce Scott, company engineer, told Saanich council Monday following a heated debate on the company's rezoning application.

The council is split on the issue.

Mr. Scott said the company could not wait indefinitely for the council to make up its mind whether to permit the establishment of the service centre.

OUTSIDE, SAANICH

He pointed out the company has been searching for more than a year for suitable property.

"We want a quick decision on whether we can go ahead with the project," he said. "If the rezoning application is refused, we will have no other alternative but to establish a service centre outside the municipality."

The Saanich advisory commission reported to council it has no objection to the rezoning application, providing certain planning requirements are met.

But on this matter, Mr. Scott said the planning requirements are too stringent.

He pointed out the planning requirements called for landscaped setbacks of 44 feet for the front, side and the rear of the centre.

"This means we would have to set aside one-third of the property for landscaping," he said.

Coun. Leslie Passmore, who opposed the application, suggested the McKenzie and Quadra site be reserved for the proposed new municipal hall.

He proposed holding a plebiscite during the December elections to determine if ratepayers favored the McKenzie-Quadra site for a new municipal hall. The reeve ruled him out of order.

At this point, Mr. Scott recalled that council a year ago rejected a company application to establish the service centre on Vernon Street because of plans to build a new municipal hall in the area.

"Is council going to raise the same objection with regard to this new site?" he asked.

FEW PROTESTS

Reeve George Chaterton said the proposed site for the service centre was not ideal, but added it was likely to result in few objections from surrounding property owners.

The reeve called for a vote on whether to hold a public hearing later this month to consider the company's application.

The result was a 3-3 vote, but the reeve cast the deciding vote in favor of the public hearing.

CONSTRUCTION TAKES DIP IN VICTORIA

Construction curved downward in Victoria last month according to building permit statistics released Tuesday by City Hall.

But city officials think the sporadic building pattern this year still will wind up on a par or better than the 1960 record.

Some 588 permits, valued at $432,449, were issued last month compared with 612 permits worth an estimated $661,009 in August, 1960.

Total value of construction for the first eight months this year is $4,850,169 compared with $5,398,845 for the corresponding period last year.

Councillors Shun Boost in Own Pay

Saanich reeve George Chaterton Monday suggested raising councillors' indemnities to shake up for the extra time

WHAT'S TO DO WITH STATUE OF DUPLESSIS?

QUEBEC (CP)—A statue of the late premier Maurice Duplessis, commissioned from a Canadian sculptor living in France by the Quebec legislature late in 1959, has arrived by ship and is in storage in the Provincial Museum.

The statue was to be placed atop a lavish base near the legislature under terms of legislation introduced by Premier Paul Sauvé who succeeded Mr. Duplessis after the latter's death Sept. 7, 1959.

But the new Liberal government of Premier Jean Lesage may modify these plans.

Sculptor Emile Brunet, whose studio is in Paris, made a plaster original of the statue and then arranged for its casting in bronze.

Legislation to commission a statue of Mr. Duplessis was voted by the former Union Nationale administration. The Liberals had disapproved of the proposal.

and work they are spending on municipal business.

But his suggestion drew a blank from councillors.

They now receive $1,200 a year. One third of this sum is for expenses and the remaining two-thirds for services.

The reeve gets $3,600 a year.

The reeve's suggestion was made after Coun. Leslie Passmore proposed that council increase its membership from seven to nine.

Under the Municipal Act council can petition the cabinet for an increase of two councillors, providing it can submit sufficient reasons for wanting the extra council seats.

"I think we have a good reason for wanting two extra council seats," said the councillor. "Municipal business is taking up more and more of our time. The burden is getting to be heavy."

"I suggest we increase councillors' indemnities and work a little harder instead," said the reeve.

"I've seen the work pile up in the last two years and I feel the indemnity for councillors should be increased."

Council let the reeve's suggestion drop and asked councillor-treasurer John Tribe to bring in a report on the question of increasing council seats.

Living Costs Up But Wages Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—Higher prices for food and gasoline and salaries at July 1—latest helped increase Canadian living date available—was 182.9, compared with 181.6 a year earlier, summer price index for Aug. 1. The index is based on 1959 edged upwards one-tenth of a point to 129.1.

The increase reported today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics was the first rise in five months. The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, had held steady at 129 for three months. It now is 1.2 points above its level of 127.9 on Aug. 1 last year.

Brigad prices in many cities rose one cent a loaf during July and price tags also were higher on eggs, some fruits, coffee, powdered skim milk, pork and some cuts of beef. Most fresh vegetables were cheaper, but the index of food costs rose to 125.3 from 124.9.

Consumers had to pay more for transportation, due to higher gasoline prices, and for their recreation, thanks to higher admission prices to professional football games in both Eastern and Western Canada. Tobacco and alcohol prices generally were higher, too.

The only areas of consumer costs to show decreases were clothing and health care.

The rise in living costs followed an increase in industrial wages during June. The index

Fishermen Protest To Ottawa

Threat of Arrest Rebounds on Guard

A letter of protest was sent to the Department of Justice at Ottawa today by two Victoria fishermen who say that they were not allowed to land at William Head minimum security prison when their boat lost its screw in heavy seas on Aug. 29.

Terry White, 3176 Glen Lake, and Robert Fisher, Island Highway, say that they were told by a guard they would be arrested for trespassing on private property if they landed, and consequently had to paddle for six hours until they reached safety at Saxe Point.

Officials of the William Head prison do not deny the allegation.

ARREST THREAT

"A guard came down from the building with another man who looked like some sort of a 'wheel' and told us that this was private property and we were liable to arrest if we landed," complained White.

"We let him know we were in trouble—had no oars in the boat and would have to paddle, but we weren't allowed to land anyway."

"The man who looked like an official didn't say anything. It was the guard who did all the talking."

Fisher said, "We were told that we were not to land along the waterfront of the prison grounds, from where we could have summoned help, and so far as I am concerned this constitutes a flagrant disregard for the accepted principle of extending assistance to a vessel in distress."

BAD WEATHER

The pair had been sport fishing at Pedder Bay when the weather came up and they got into difficulty.

"I have made a full report of this... unfortunate incident to my superiors," said acting assistant warden J. J. Sheridan.

"We have helped many people in the past; indeed, it is in our interest to go out of our way to help people."

STOP DISEASE

He said the salvage operations store the waste of large tracts of valuable timber and next spring will prevent the spread of disease from the dead trees to trees unscathed by the fires.

INDUCTION TONIGHT

Induction service for the Rev. J. Mellor Alexander will be held at Cordova Bay United Church this evening at 8.

He is to be inducted into the charge of Gordon Head United Church and Cordova Bay United Church.

APPOINTED provincial executive commissioner of the B.C. Scouts of Canada, James P. Ross of St. John, N.B., will take up duties at his Vancouver headquarters starting Thursday. Position is the top scouting post in B.C. Mr. Ross has been in scouting since 1931.

Speed of Fire May 'Save' Mature Trees

Fires sometimes rampage through forests so quickly that timber is only slightly damaged.

Foresters in the Kamloops district counted on this Tuesday when they headed back into huge tracts of blackened forest to estimate how much mature timber can be salvaged.

An official of the British Columbia Forest Service said here timber cruisers have also started salvage surveys in fire areas of the Prince George and Prince Rupert forest districts.

FOLIAGE ONLY

"Quite often a fire crawns along the tree tops at such a speed that only the foliage is burned off and the tree bark singed," he said.

"Of course this kills the tree but doesn't affect its value as timber."

After the surveys are completed, timber which can be salvaged will be auctioned to logging firms.

The officials said timber firms are encouraged to log off the scorched but valuable trees by a reduction in crown stumpage charges, often reduced by 50 per cent.

CITY OFFICIALS WAKE UP TO 'SLEEPER'

City Hall officials today were planning a protest against a "sleeper" amendment to the Municipal Act which forces municipalities to pay the cost of school trustee elections.

Last session of the legislature adopted an apparently minor change in wording which went unnoticed until this week.

Under the new regulation, Victoria stands to lose about $600 it received from Greater Victoria School Board for reimbursement of expenses involved in the annual election of trustees, held at the same time as the civic election.

"I just can't understand them doing anything as unfair as that," said one official. "They never consulted us or anything."

An emergency resolution protesting the change will be sent to this month's Union of B.C. Municipalities convention if city council approves.

Saanich Calls Full Study On High-Rise

Application Made In Lansdowne Area

An application to rezone the southeast corner of Richmond and Lansdowne Roads for high-rise apartment use, has sparked a complete planning study of areas suitable for multi-storey buildings in Saanich.

The study was ordered today by the Saanich advisory planning commission after the Royal Trust Co. applied to rezone the land from residential to apartment use.

The one-acre property facing Victoria College is owned by the Walton estate.

Approval of the application would give the owners permission to erect an apartment anywhere between six and 11 storeys high.

FIRST REQUEST

An official of the municipal planning department said the application is the first request for rezoning property in Saanich for high-rise apartments.

"We are going to make a complete study of the high-rise apartment problem before considering the application," he said. "Similar applications are bound to follow in the next few years."

GOOD OFFER

Mrs. Peggy Packard, artist, a member of the Walton family who resides on the property, said some months ago a company offered a "substantial sum" for the land for construction of a garage and gasoline station.

"The family felt that such a development was not suitable for the area," she said.

Street Improvement To Cost $100,000

An estimated $175,000 worth of winter works projects are scheduled for Oak Bay, the area's third largest municipality.

This represents nearly $10 a head, or what is believed to be the largest winter works expenditure per capita in the area.

Largest single item is expected to be about $100,000 for streets—new ones in the university area, and improvements to old ones—with water works next at $41,000.

MORE STUDY

Proposals came before council Tuesday, but were referred to finance committee and public works for further study.

Participation of federal and provincial governments in the winter works program will bring Oak Bay's estimated total cost to about $140,000.

Work probably would have to be done within the period Oct. 15 to April 30 in order to qualify for senior government aid.

It is hoped that additional work may be undertaken also, but council has made no commitment as yet.

PARK WORK

About $12,000 is expected to be spent on parks work, mostly in the Cattle Point area, where gravel walks are proposed for the undeveloped part of Uplands Park west of the war memorial.

Street lighting plans include new lamps for Cadboro Bay Road in the narrow portion north of Cedar Hill Cross Road (15 lights), and on Lansdowne east of Foul Bay, for a total of $5,500.

There will be new water mains laid in the older, or southern, parts of Oak Bay, and new pumps to improve water pressures north of Lansdowne.

Coun. Alan Cox told council the proposed program is a "comprehensive one."

Stock Entries Big Feature At Cobble Hill

Well-filled stock sections were featured today at the 52nd annual Cobble Hill Fall Fair sponsored by Shawinigan-Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute.

Both Heatherbank and Lakeside Farms had large exhibits of cattle, and sheep entries also were good.

Additions this year included a new poultry house and sheep ring.

Number of entries in other sections compares favorably with other years, but there was evidence of the dry summer in a reduction in the fruit exhibits.

The show was opened at 1:30 p.m. by Agriculture Minister Frank Richter.

Main event in the afternoon was a gymkhana. Judge was F. H. "Tommy" Wilmut of Langley, and six cups were up for competition.

Entries were received from all parts of Vancouver Island and the B.C. mainland.

BUS LAMENT

Questions, Questions, Questions! Many delays in new local bus schedules that draw complaints are caused by the passengers themselves, an alderman said today.

Ald. Michael Griffin, chairman of a transit sub-committee which sat three hours Tuesday night considering complaints about the new service, said most of the delays will evaporate when passengers are thoroughly familiar with new routes.

"There have been considerable delays in the new schedule but we found that many of them were caused by the passengers themselves because they kept the drivers busy answering questions about routes and schedules."

"I'm sure if the public has patience, they will find many of these headaches will resolve themselves in time."

A few changes were recommended by the committee and several suggestions were turned down after considering all angles.

CONFLICT

"We considered every complaint from city residents but of course it was not possible to resolve them all because frequently there was conflict between complaints themselves."

Among the sub-committee's recommendations to public works committee are:

Use of a soil consultant company's seismograph to measure comparative bus vibration on sections of Richmond and Richardson where house-holders have complained.

Review of Sunday schedules to improve connections for church services.

Rejection of a request for bus service on Begbie.

Alteration of No. 1 and No. 3 routes near St. Joseph's Hospital to reduce noise around the institution.

And move the Gonzales Crescent route from Robertson to Beechwood.

SIGHTS SET ON McBRIDE'S RECORD

Premier Marks 61st Birthday

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today celebrated his 61st birthday and two political milestones.

The Social Credit premier has been a member of the B.C. Legislature for 20 years, and has now been premier longer than any man but one.

First elected an MLA in 1941 as a Conservative, Mr. Bennett later became an Independent and finally the first Social Credit premier in August 1952.

He now has served nine years as premier, and his goal is to beat the record held by Sir Richard McBride, who held office 12 years from 1903 to 1915. He remains as premier for his present term

he will automatically pass McBride's record.

This summer he overtook Liberal John Oliver, who was the second longest-serving premier.

Mr. Bennett was born in New Brunswick of United Empire Loyalist stock in 1900, and he made a special trip to that province in August.

Tuesday night, his birthday eve celebration was a half-hour appearance on the national-television show Close Up, during which he explained his reasons for taking over the B.C. Electric and the Peace River power project—one of the most dramatic decisions of his long political career.

Baby Douglas is centre of attraction as Mrs. Robertson, Cheryl and James pose in the garden of their new Victoria home.

Mum's Ingenuity Saved the Day!

By PAT DUFOUR

If you've had doubts about going on a long car trip with a two and a half month old baby, check with tiny Douglas Robertson. He'll verify that it's a cinch.

Of course, it helps if you have the organizing ability of his mother, Mrs. James S. Robertson. Arriving in Victoria last week after a three-day trip from Calgary, Mrs. Robertson explained how feeding time for Douglas was adapted to suit the road.

"We had one of these bottle heaters along that can be plugged in a car. It didn't work so I just lifted the hood of the car and warmed the bottle on the motor."

Mrs. Robertson's ingenuity may well be inherited from her grandfather, the late Brig. Gen. G. S. Tuxford of the Plains.

One of the pioneers of Saskatchewan, his was the leadership that brought railroads and telephones to the area around Moose Jaw and built the armory in that prairie city. The town of Tuxford, 10 miles from Moose Jaw, was named after him.

"He was terrifically enthusiastic about everything and was never lost when it came to organizing," explains his fair-haired granddaughter. He used to "winter" in Victoria and died during the Second World War.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson and their three children, Douglas, Cheryl, six, and five-year-old James are making their new home at 23 Paddon Avenue.

Mrs. Robertson describes their reaction on hearing the news of her husband being appointed to manage a Victoria men's clothing store as "pure delight."

"I hope that we stay here forever," she adds. "When our friends in Calgary heard that we were coming to the coast they were all envious."

Young James still has some misgivings about Victoria. Obviously he remembers last Thursday's weather when he describes his new home as "rainy country."

The family were only in Calgary three months, their former home being at Moose Jaw. "But," says Mrs. Robertson, "we were there long enough to take in the Stampede. The people sure go all out for it—so much so that I heard many Texans admitting that they didn't even have anything in Texas to equal it!"

With their new home just a stone's throw from the seafront it's natural that the Rob-ertsons are already thinking of the days when they can join the city's boating fraternity.

"We love the water," Mrs. Robertson tells you with an anticipating smile. "My father had a two-masted schooner. It was an old whaling boat and we spent many happy hours on the lake in it."

"But," with a second look at her young sons and daughter, "I'm afraid that we'll have to wait until our 'crew' has grown a little."

Wedding in St. Mary's Church

Pink and mauve-toned glad-oil flanked the altar of St.
Mary's Anglican Church for the wedding that united Marion Leslie Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Brown, of North Vancouver, and David Stanley
Spilsbury, son of Mr. and Mrs.
T. S. Spilsbury, 1631 Garnet
Avenue. Officiating was Canon
H. Pike.

Given in her marriage by her stepfather, the bride wore a gown of white chiffon over peau de sole, designed by the groom's sister, Mrs. F. McLeod.
It featured a classic neckline, short sleeves and full skirt, extending into a train.

A headpiece of seed-pearls held the chapel-length veil.
White roses and ivy were in the bouquet. Only jewelry was a strand of culture pearls, gift of the groom.

Gowns of tony organza over flowered Jacquard cotton were worn by the maid of honor, Miss Gail Jones, and the bridesmaids, Misses Kathleen and Ann Brown, sisters of the bride. Miss Jones' gown was in mauve, the bridesmaids in pink. They wore white Shasta chrysanthemums in their hair and carried bouquets of the same flowers.

Brian Lindsay was best man and ushering the guests were Stephen Trace and Russell
Trace, the groom's nephews.
Mauve and white gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the Sabbath Room in Holyrood
House for the reception. Frank Thorne proposed the toast to his niece.

Leaving on a honeymoon motoring trip to California, the new Mrs. Spilsbury donned an apricot sarrano suit with bone-toned accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.
The newlyweds will make their home at 1165 Hadfield Avenue.

DEAR, ABBY

Rejoice—and Forget!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When you are the only person I can turn to for advice. My husband and I were married for six years, and had no children. Last year we adopted the illegitimate child of my youngest sister, who was only 17. She never admitted who the baby's father was. My husband was very eager to adopt this child, Abby, the older the boy gets the more he resembles my husband. The thought that my husband might have fathered this child is making me sick. I worship my husband, and love that baby. I feel so mixed-up. What should I do?

wants to marry me soon, but I am afraid to marry him for the following reason: He hits me. Sometimes he hits me hard, and leaves bruises. He has hit me out of a clear blue sky for no reason at all. When I ask him why he does this, he gets very sorry and says he hits me because he "loves me." I think this is a very funny way to show a girl you love her, don't you? I am very confused about what to do, Abby. I hate to take a chance on marrying him, and ending up a punching bag. My parents like him fine, but they don't know about his big fault.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Through Jr. and Sr. High
With One Looseleaf Binder
By PENNY SAVER

Penny has found a loose-leaf binder that is said to last five years. Company guarantees unconditionally that binder is waterproof, weatherproof, won't crack, chip or peel, is washable with soap suds and resists oil, wear scuffs and tears. All this for $3.95—a true penny-saver over five years. Binder is usual size for 8½x11 inch paper, has three large rings and two inside pockets.

Something new in hard cover ring binders is also on sale right now. It has a pencil case built into the closed back. Books have plastic-covered cardboard covers, in several brown shades, (one resembles a varnished wood finish) and blue. Inside there are the usual three rings which can be released by a spring and a single plastic pocket on one cover. Price is only 98 cents.

You'll do away with paper bags when you see the handsome Brunch bags that Penny pounced on today. In brown plastic with horse motif on front or in white, with flowered motif, bags are about 12 inches deep with zippered lid and have a handy carrying strap. Vacuum bottle is included in the $3.49 price tag.

If you Grade 10 students have taken one look at your maths text and decided it is impossible, perhaps the "Guide to Mathematics 30" that Penny saw today will help.

Between the soft covers, there are pages of useful summaries, typical exam problems (with answers!)—all "designed to assist the student to study more effectively and with much less wasted effort." Your problems solved for only $1.50.

If you wish to know where Penny shopped for these back-to-school items, call her at EV 2-3131.

BRISTOL MAYOR ON CARPET

Sherry, Tie-Clips ...
Who Paid for Them?

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Nathan Phillips said Tuesday he did not invite the Lord Mayor of Bristol to Toronto. The Toronto-born mayor, Charles Smith, is to be questioned about his trip by Bristol council next Tuesday. Mr. Smith, a postman, his wife and several other city officials visited Toronto last month and presented the Toronto council members with tie clips and bottles of sherry. Mayor Phillips said he had no knowledge of Mr. Smith until he received a telephone call from England about the visit.

Mr. Smith gets a personal allowance of £2,000 and an entertainment allowance of £4,500, and Bristol councillor S. T. Gambin said he will ask how much of the travel costs are being debited to the Lord Mayor's allowance.

A corporation official said the trip was authorized by the mayor and a sherry committee as a separate item expenditure and was approved by the leaders of all parties.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Now Labor Day has come and gone, it might be wise—and again it might not—to bring up the discovery just made in Paris that the laboring group most mistreated and exploited is ... the husband.

We're all slaves to our wives, fellows ... wives are cruel tyrants ... we should demand our liberation.

We may be pretty bossy at the factory or the pool room or the juke mill, or wherever we work, but when we get home, we're just jackies to the babe that hooked us.

Just when we thought that the male shortage was making men more important, this bad news "leaked out" in headlines in the "Paris-Press." A woman writer, Danielle Lord, turning traitor against her sex, claims that all wives think their husbands are idiots and imbeciles.

"Naturally, they wouldn't change them for the world—because if they changed them, then their husbands wouldn't be imbeciles who slave for their loafing wives," claims the French lady.

GOOD SALARY

We embezzle husbands not only carry in the coal and lug out the garbage, sprain our backs moving furniture, and kill ourselves providing security for our wives—but we pay them a handsome salary for allowing us to do it.

"The wife finds it much nicer to look out the window at her husband taking the bus to the office than going to work herself," reports this female scrivener further.

And, as for men dictating marriage terms because men are scarce—

Most Frenchmen want to have a fling and marry in middle age. So what's the average marriage age in France?

Twenty-four.

"Man was born free and equal with woman. How did he allow himself to be reduced to slavery?"

The answer is, they got married.

***

EARL'S PEARLS: This might be a lot different sort of world if a man had to have a license to hunt for trouble.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A lot of men who proposed on bended knee still haven't gotten back on their feet.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Tatty Tuttle opened a fortune cookie in a Chinese restaurant, and read: "Beware of short dark man approaching—he has your check."

They tell of a doctor whose

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions; he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 26-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hamamto Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Mary Ann Talerier, aged 10, of Utica, N.Y., for her question:

What Caused the Death of the Dinosaurs?

Almost every young person wonders why the dinosaurs disappeared—which means that Andy is asked this question by many, many readers.

However, science does not have an exact answer to the question. No one can prove exactly what happened, step by step. In some ways this is pleasant. It is a comfort to learn that our clever scientists don't know everything and there are problems left for Andy's young readers to solve when they grow up. It also gives us a chance to use our imaginations and make some guesses, which is splendid exercise for the brain.

There are tricks to learn about this kind of guessing game. We naturally want our guesses to be as near the truth as possible and for this reason we must find out as much as we can about the dinosaurs and digest as many facts as we can find about the world in which they lived. Then we can scrap the impossible guesses and choose the likely ones. For example, it is not likely that the big fellows migrated to Mars.

The dinosaurs were reptiles. Like our modern reptiles the lizards, they were scaly-skinned, cold-blooded, egg-laying animals. The needed a warm climate, plenty of plants to eat and soft, warm ground to bury their eggs. Those who liked meat needed plenty of smaller dinosaurs, a round

Some of the big reptiles needed to live in shallow water to support their bulky bodies. These fellows needed a plentiful supply of handy water weeds for food.

For 100 million years or so the world climate was mild the year round. There were large stretches of shallow swamps land teeming with weeds. The dry land was lush with plant life. The dinosaurs thrived and multiplied. There were all shapes and sizes and everything suited them fine.

er, too set in their ways to cope with new conditions. Large numbers may have perished from hunger, the weather and the diseases that follow starvation. And a new little enemy may have helped along the downfall of the dinosaurs.

The first mammals had come to live in the world. They were ratty little burrowers, but they had warm blood and fur coats. They gave birth to live babies and protected them through infancy. The dinosaurs left their eggs on the ground and their children to fend for themselves. When times were bad, many young dinosaurs perished and maybe many dinosaur eggs were eaten by the mammals. We cannot prove that any of these guesses are true. Perhaps all of them are partly true and a great many different things brought the mighty dinosaurs to extinction.

Reptiles Had Few Problems

The plant-eaters had to watch out for the meat-eaters and sometimes there were scraps. But in the main the reptiles had few problems. Their fossil skeletons show that they had very small brains and therefore were too stupid to solve problems.

Then the world climate changed and the marshy swamps became dry land. The dinosaurs had become too big to hide from unfriendly weather.

er, too set in their ways to cope with new conditions. Large numbers may have perished from hunger, the weather and the diseases that follow starvation. And a new little enemy may have helped along the downfall of the dinosaurs.

The first mammals had come to live in the world. They were ratty little burrowers, but they had warm blood and fur coats. They gave birth to live babies and protected them through infancy. The dinosaurs left their eggs on the ground and their children to fend for themselves. When times were bad, many young dinosaurs perished and maybe many dinosaur eggs were eaten by the mammals. We cannot prove that any of these guesses are true. Perhaps all of them are partly true and a great many different things brought the mighty dinosaurs to extinction.

IT WAS A SLIGHT CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP)—The hunting season claimed its first casualty here Sunday when a 16-year-old boy mistook a man's foot for a grouse.

Barrie Ross, 16, a student at the University of B.C., was wounded in the left leg when he sat down to rest while hunting about three miles from here.

The bullet pierced his hunting boot and entered his ankle. Hospital authorities said it missed striking any bones or tendons.

The youth who fired the shot had his rifle confiscated and officials said he probably will be charged under Game Act regulations which state a juvenile should be accompanied by an adult while hunting.

MAPLE BAY REGATTA

Lipton Cup Won By RVCYC Skipper

MAPLE BAY—Lipton Cup, emblematic of supremacy in combined B and C sailing classes, returned to Royal Victoria Yacht Club during the annual Labor Day regatta here.

Winner was W. G. "Bill" McIntosh, skipper of "Skool," a C class racer. Second in Lipton Cup competition was Jorgen Baess in "Lotte," a B class entry.

Winner of B class was Hunter Vogel in "Aida," of Royal Vancouver Yacht Club. Mr. Vogel had won the coveted trophy each year for the past three years.

IDEAL CONDITIONS
"Reality" of Victoria, with Jack Smith at the helm, won the 8-metre race. Vic Palmer, Duncan, in "Alana," was the only six-metre competitor because stormy weather kept a number of mainland entries away.

Racing conditions here, however, were ideal. Dragon class winner was Temple Wright, commodore of Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, in "Stromboli." Second was Harry Barnes, Victoria, in "Lil."

Alex James, Victoria, sailed "Tobacco" to victory in the Snipe class and Sid Hall, Victoria, was second in "Klatawa."

Maurice Green Trophy race from Sidney Island to Sansum Narrows was won by Ned Ashe in "May D. II."

New Deal Saves Ferry Link Between Islands, Mainland

Gulf Islands residents have been relieved—their ferry link with the mainland is being maintained, despite an earlier threat to cut it Sept. 11. O. H. New, operator of the Coast Ferries Ltd. service from Steveston to the islands, said a new schedule will go into effect Sept. 12.

It will cut out service to Sidney, which was previously the island terminal. The new service will run

Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from Steveston to Galliano, Mayne, Pender and Saturna islands with a one and one-half-hour stop at Saturna before returning to Steveston. The same route will be followed on Sundays, with a half-hour stop at Saturna.

CUT 25 HOURS
Mr. New said this service will cut a total of 25 hours sailing time from present schedules.

The company had intended to drop the entire Gulf Islands run Sept. 11 because it was uneconomical, and it could not get further financial assistance from the B.C. government.

A delegation of island residents protested last week to Highways Minister P. A. Gallagher, who promised to get in touch with Mr. New and do everything possible to maintain the ferry link.

Mr. New said the revised service will be in effect pending further discussions with the government.

It is believed the company would be willing to sell its operation to the Toll Authority, which has just taken over the other Gulf Island ferries which run from Swartz Bay to Salt Spring, Pender and Mayne.

V.I. BRIEFS

Teen-Agers 'Explore' Religion

Rev. E. W. Scott of Southampton, a Church of England clergyman who has been appointed chaplain of Shawnigan Lake School, said Tuesday all teen-agers are religious but that their attitude towards religion is "exploratory."

Interviewed on his arrival in Montreal aboard the Polish liner Batory, Mr. Scott said teen-agers "like to talk about religion and do so readily, but—simply because they are teen-agers—they do not like to conform to fixed religious patterns."

Teen-agers do not really like to be left to their own devices. When left entirely on their own, they go to pieces, he said.

Given a real challenge, however, they rise to the occasion. Before his appointment to Shawnigan Lake School, Mr. Scott was vicar of Midgham-with-Brimpton in the diocese of Oxford, England. At one time he was rector of St. George's Windsor Park in Edmonton.

ALBERNI—The British Columbia highways department has granted British Columbia Power Commission permission to close the Alberni-Tofino road during working hours in the interests of public safety.

Right-of-way clearing for the Great Central to Ucluelet transmission line has resulted in an increase in the volume of heavy logging and construction traffic on the road.

B.C. Hydro will establish a gate near the northerly end of Kennedy Lake. Hours of operation will coincide with those in force at the gate located at the easterly end of the road so that inconvenience to the travelling public will be kept to a minimum.

It is expected that the hydro-operated gate will be removed December 15.

FISHING BAN AT COWICHAN

Neutron Bomb Studied In New U.S. A-Tests

Smaller Devices Included

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Kennedy has ordered resumption of nuclear testing which, informants said today, may help develop new light-weight atomic weapons, step up work on anti-missile rockets and possibly examine the feasibility of a new mass-killer neutron bomb.

Ending a three-year moratorium in the wake of Russia's third above-ground nuclear blast in five days, Kennedy Tuesday approved resumption of laboratory and underground tests "with no fallout" saying there is no other choice in meeting responsibilities to Americans "and to the security of other free nations."

Still open until Saturday is the British-American proposal that Russia join with them in an immediate ban on all atmospheric nuclear tests under existing detection methods.

A Moscow broadcast—which claimed the British-American offer is just another excuse for justifying underground and atmospheric tests—indicated that Soviet Premier Khrushchev likely will reject the Western proposal.

John J. McCloy, the U.S. disarmament administrator, arranged to meet in New York today with Valeriy Zorin, Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, to resume talks on setting up a multi-national disarmament conference.

While the White House gave no details of the new tests other than that they will take place this month, informants said they will be detonated in tunnels especially prepared in the Nevada desert test site area. They emphasized there would be no danger of fallout, a contrast to Russian explosions contaminating the atmosphere.

The Americans are particularly interested in testing small atomic weapons for field troops (see page 5); in perfecting a missile that could knock down long-range intercontinental ballistic missiles and in examining the feasibility of a neutron bomb that could destroy vast numbers of humans without extensive damage to cities and towns.

NOTIFIES ALLIES
Kennedy was under pressure for months from political and military quarters to resume testing, but made no decision until American authorities announced that Russia had detonated her third atmospheric nuclear explosion over central Asia Tuesday. Kennedy notified Britain, France and West Germany of his decision before making it public.

Kennedy's announcement was immediately hailed by congressional leaders who fear Russia may overtake the U.S. in nuclear weapons, adding to Russia's leadership in powerful rockets and space technology.

But the decision was received with dismay by the smaller countries which fear military muscle-flexing by Russia and the United States may engulf the world in a nuclear holocaust.

American atomic sources said the series of explosions which Russia started seem to be of a kind undertaken by the United States in the past. They said that if this is the case, Russia may undertake another

DIEF, PEARSON AGREE ON FOREIGN POLICY

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker met for 30 minutes today with Opposition leader Lester B. Pearson, discussing the resumption of the parliamentary session and briefing him on the international situation.

Both men indicated to newsmen later that as far as possible there would be agreement between their parties on foreign affairs during the current session.

Pearson said Diefenbaker impressed upon him the gravity of the international situation.

"We want to keep as much unity as possible in external affairs," Pearson said.

Diefenbaker said later that the government has always tried to have unity of foreign policy with the Liberals.

"Our objectives are the same," he said.

Pearson said Diefenbaker was so concerned with the international situation he moved ahead a debate on external affairs so that it could start Thursday on the resumption of the session.

EVENTUAL MOVE

Liberal Chief Sees Berlin as UN Site

TIME TO KEEP COOL HEADS SAYS DOUGLAS

REGINA (CP)—President Kennedy's announcement that the United States will resume nuclear testing is both understandable and regrettable, Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan said today.

The national leader of the New Democratic Party said in a prepared statement: "It is understandable because the Soviet Union has already made three nuclear tests in the last few days, but regrettable because it is another step along the always-dangerous road that could lead to a nuclear holocaust."

"This is a time for all countries, including our own, to keep cool heads. To attempt to meet bluster with bluster at this critical stage in world affairs is to court disaster," he said.

UN Troops Attacked

ELIZABETHVILLE (AP)—Anti-United Nations disturbances erupted again in Elizabethville tonight and again tonight police fired shots over the heads of mobs to break up the angry demonstrations.

UN troops stationed in this city in the Congo were stoned and some Swedish soldiers were injured by flying rocks. Mobs rioted in the streets Tuesday night and wrecked one UN car and burned another.

K Greets Nehru Warmly

MOSCOW (UPI)—Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru flew into Moscow from Belgrade today with a "save the peace" plea to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

He was welcomed by Khrushchev with a warm embrace and an expression of hope by the Kremlin leader that "your visit in the present international situation will help to improve this situation for the benefit of world peace."

Nehru came to Moscow direct from the "summit" conference of unaligned nations in Belgrade which in a final communique called upon Soviet Russia and the United States to immediately "suspend their recent war preparations" and "resume negotiation for a peaceful settlement of any outstanding differences between them."

FOLLOWED NKURUMAH

As a peace emissary from Belgrade, Nehru arrived shortly after President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, also designated by the Belgrade conference to carry its peace pleas to Khrushchev.

It was Nehru who received the major attention. He had scheduled this official visit before the Belgrade conference.

Nehru was met with full honors at Vnukovo airport by Khrushchev leading a delegation of top-ranking party and government officials. Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev led the welcoming delegation for Nkrumah.

The greetings were extremely cordial. Khrushchev, still tanned from his recent Black Sea vacation, gave Nehru one of his typical bear-hug greetings. In his brief airport remarks, he not only expressed the hope Nehru's visit could help the cause of peace but also stressed the record of friendship between the Soviet Union and India.

Nehru, who had scheduled an official visit here before the Belgrade conference, sponsored the meeting's pre-dawn peace appeal to the United States and the Soviet Union only a few hours earlier.

Nkrumah was the official conference delegate who was to impress on Khrushchev the emergency call of the 25 uncommitted nations.

Missing Children Safe in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Five children missing since Tuesday along with a 35-year-old housemaid were found safe today in the care of the municipal family welfare service.

They were left there Tuesday afternoon by the housemaid, known to the parents as Mrs. and Mrs. Andre Philibert, only as Louise.

Capt. Det. George Cookson of the missing persons bureau said the children are well and were not ill-treated between the time the mother left the home about 11 a.m. and their arrival at the welfare centre about five hours later. He said he is not looking for the maid, hired "off the street" last week by the Philberts, who live in the south-central district of suburban Griffintown.

The welfare service placed the youngest child, four months, in a nursery, the oldest, 8, in hospital for treatment for a nervous disorder, and the three others in a foster home in nearby Marieville.

Police said steps are being taken to have all but the boy in hospital for examination returned to their home today.

Timber Giant Must Go, Woodworkers Urge

$2 MILLION STRIKE FUND?

VANCOUVER (CP)—The buildup of a separate $2,000,000 strike fund through an extra $4 a month assessment on membership is proposed in a Duncan resolution to be put before the western conference of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA).

The proposal by local 1-80 embracing IWA workers in central Vancouver Island said the extra $4 assessment should be separate from the present $1-a-month strike fund assessment. However, the latter would remain in effect.

JOE MORRIS
... asks "social tornado"

LOGGERS GIVE WARNING

Unemployment Near 'National Disaster'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Joe Morris, western president of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA), warned today that with the working force increasing more rapidly than job opportunities, "the stage is set for a major national disaster."

In a keynote address to the opening session of the four-day IWA western regional convention, Morris told delegates from Saskatchewan, Alberta and B.C. that chronic mass unemployment remains and is likely to grow worse.

Workers must unite in a vigorous campaign to combat this situation but it would require "something in the nature of social tornado to impress upon our governments the simple fact that the waste of unemployment is more costly than measures to cure it."

The western president suggested that the New Democratic Party, with an appropriate constitution and policy, perhaps could provide this "social tornado."

Disastrous forest fires this summer brought a warning to government and the people and on all sides "experienced loggers ask why was not greater attention given to fire prevention instead of relying upon a hurried improvisation of fire fighting methods which failed to control the situation when numerous and large-scale fires were actually raging."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Break-up of the giant MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River lumber-pulp empire, with government expropriation if necessary is urged in a resolution to be put before the western conference of the International Woodworkers of America.

The resolution, sponsored by the Vancouver local of the union, declared this policy should be made a plank in the political platform of the New Democratic Party.

The resolution declared that in the last decade British Columbians have watched the tremendous growth of the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company, a growth which now engulfs "almost half of the forest products produced in the province."

"This organization has become so big and powerful and has such a stranglehold on industry through its control of forest management licences, re-manufacturing processes, shipping, etc., that they can manipulate the market thereby giving them a virtual stranglehold on B.C. industry and becoming a monopolized menace to the province of British Columbia," the resolution said.

RETURN TO OWNERS

The resolution declared that the Powell River Company, recently amalgamated into the MacMillan-Bloedel organization, should be "given back to its original owners." In the event of refusal "we petition the provincial government to expropriate MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company as a crown corporation where it is to be operated in the interests of the people of B.C."

In other resolutions to come before the convention the IWA will urge:

• • • Support a union of Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand politically and economically as a step toward world government.

Sponsored by a Vancouver local the resolution declares that the road to world government is the only road to peace. "We can, within our great Commonwealth of Nations, initiate action towards the path to world government."

• • • The provincial government be accused of withholding $24 a month in federal

FIVE MONTHS OF NEGOTIATION

Carpenters Finally Sign

Agreement between 600 Victoria carpenters and 22 leading contractors after five months of contract negotiations was reached Tuesday.

Carpenter's Union Local 1598 and Victoria Building Industries Exchange signed their first three-year working contract.

It provides for no wage increase this year, but will give carpenters 16 cents over the next two years, bringing the hourly wage to $3.

The long contract, in which other provisions remain unchanged, "creates stability in the industry," exchange president George Farmer said.

"The contractors won't have to worry about strikes. They'll know what their costs are going to be," he said.

There will be stability "both for the builder and the carpenter. They both know where they are going," said carpenter's spokesman E. T. Staley, of the Provincial Council of Carpenters.

Mr. Farmer said although negotiations were lengthy, they were friendly.

"It speaks well for both sides that there is a successful completion of the agreement," added Mr. Staley.

A month ago, carpenters were considering strike action when negotiations appeared to have bogged down.

The contract is effective from April 1 this year to March 31, 1963. There will be an eight-cent an hour increase on the present $2.54 next April 1, and a further eight cents April 1, 1963.

Industrial Issues Continue to Gain

Industrial issues continued to advance on the Toronto stock market today behind a handful of new highs on individual issues in light trading.

Loblaws A and B dominated the scene with gains of two points and 1 1/2 in heavy volume, while new highs were touched by Ford of Canada, M. Loeb, Eddy Paper New and Imperial Investment A.

Burlington Steel had the board's biggest loss, down 3 1/2 to 20 1/2 on a volume of 17,020 shares in profit-taking following Tuesday's rise on rumors of a takeover by Algoma Steel. The New York market showed substantial gains today. Motors and steels were ahead sharply after it was reported the strike deadline at General Motors had been extended.

AT TORONTO base metals were weak with Falconbridge, Geo. Labrador, Quenont and Steep Rock all off to 1/2. Gold trade was light with small losses going to Kerr-Adison, Giant Yellowknife and McIntyre-Persimmon.

In weak western oil trading, Pacific Petroleum, Great Plains, Hudson's Bay and Calgary and Edmonton all rose a few cents.

AT NEW YORK International Nickel added 1/2 on Canadian issues. Hudson Bay Mining gained 1/2 and Distillers Seagrams 1/2. McIntyre-Persimmon declined 1/2. Aluminum Ltd. and Walker Gooderham 1/2. Dome Mines 1/2, Canadian Pacific 1/2.

American stock exchange prices advanced in moderate trading. Shawinigan rose 1 point, Brazilian Traction 1/2, Jupiter Oils 1-1/2, and Eureka 1-3/4.

AT MONTREAL stocks were mixed to narrowly higher in moderate trading on the stock exchanges today.

AT LONDON the stock market remained firm today but

... 86 Years Later

Writer-historian James K. Nesbitt, background, shows city parks superintendent Herbert Warren an 86-year-old grave at Ross Bay Cemetery as part of his campaign on behalf of Victoria Historical Society to have municipalities lead in grave restoration work. He suggested in letters to Oak Bay and Saanich councils Tuesday that graves of early local figures—John Tod in Oak Bay, and Kenneth Mackenzie in Saanich—be done first. Overgrown plot shown is that of Cassiar district gold commissioner John Howe Sullivan, lost off Cape Flattery in the steamship Pacific in 1875. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

Fishermen Protest To Ottawa

Threat of Arrest Rebounds on Guard

A letter of protest was sent to the Department of Justice at Ottawa today by 1700 Victoria fishermen who say that they were not allowed to land at William Head minimum security prison when their boat lost its screw in heavy seas on Aug. 29.

Terry White, 3176 Glen Lake, and Robert Fisher, Island Highway, say that they were told by a guard they would be arrested for trespassing on private property if they landed, and consequently had to paddle for six hours until they reached safety at Saxe Point.

Officials of the William Head prison do not deny the allegation.

ARREST THREAT

"A guard came down from the building with another man who looked like some sort of a 'wheel' and told us that this was private property and we were liable to arrest if we landed," complained White.

"We let him know we were in trouble—had no oars in the boat and would have to paddle, but we weren't allowed to land anyway."

"The man who looked like an official didn't say anything. It was the guard who did all the talking."

Fisher said, "We were told that we were not to land along the waterfront of the prison grounds, from where we could have summoned help, and so far as I am concerned, this constitutes a flagrant disregard for the accepted principle of extending assistance to a vessel in distress."

BAD WEATHER

The pair had been sport fishing at Pedder Bay when the weather came up and they got into difficulty.

"I have made a full report of this... unfortunate incident to my superiors," said acting assistant warden J. J. Sheridan.

"We have helped many people in the past; indeed, it is in our interest to go out of our way to help people."

He did not know whether any disciplinary action would be taken against the offending guard, or "if any is, in fact, required."

City Officials Wake Up To 'Sleeper'

City Hall officials today were planning a protest against a "sleeper" amendment to the Municipal Act which forces municipalities to pay the cost of school trustee elections.

Last session of the Legislature adopted an apparently minor change in wording which went unnoticed until this week.

Under the new regulation, $600 stands to lose about $600 it received from Greater Victoria School Board for reimbursement of expenses involved in the annual election of trustees, held at the same time as the civic election.

"I just can't understand them doing anything as unfair as that," said one official. "They never consulted us or anything."

An emergency resolution protesting the change will be sent to this month's Union of B.C. Municipalities convention if city council approves.

ESQUIMALT NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Ottawa, left today, returns Thursday at 4 p.m.

Fraser, out for the day.

APPOINTED provincial executive commissioner of the B.C. Yukon council of the Boy Scouts of Canada, James P. Ross of St. John, N.B., will take up duties at his Vancouver headquarters starting Thursday. Position is the top scouting post in B.C. Mr. Ross has been in scouting since 1931.

Speed of Fire May 'Save' Mature Trees

Fires sometimes rampage through forests so quickly that timber is only slightly damaged.

Foresters in the Kamloops district counted on this Tuesday when they headed back into huge tracts of blackened forest to estimate how much mature timber can be salvaged.

An official of the British Columbia Forest Service said here timber cruisers have also started salvage surveys in fire areas of the Prince George and Prince Rupert forest districts.

FOLIAGE ONLY

"Quite often a fire 'crows' along the tree tops at such a speed that only the foliage is burned off and the tree bark singed," he said.

"Of course this kills the tree but doesn't affect its value as timber."

After the surveys are completed, timber which can be salvaged will be auctioned to logging firms.

The officials said timber firms are encouraged to log off the scorched but valuable trees by a reduction in crown stumpage charges, often reduced by 50 per cent.

STOP DISEASE

He said the salvage operations store the waste of large tracts of valuable timber and next spring will prevent the spread of disease from the dead trees to trees unscathed by the fires.

He said a preliminary survey of a 7,000-acre fire area in the Prince Rupert forest district showed trees on one-third of the acreage were only slightly damaged, leaving about 100,000 board feet of merchantable timber.

The forest service reported 17 new fires in the province during the Labor Day weekend, bringing the total now burning to 209.

Induction Tonight

Induction service for the Rev. J. Mollor Alexander will be held at Cordova Bay United Church this evening at 8.

He is to be inducted into the charge of Gordon Head United Church and Cordova Bay United Church.

Saanich Calls Full Study On High-Rise

Application Made In Lansdowne Area

An application to rezone the southwest corner of Richmond and Lansdowne Roads for high-rise apartment use, has sparked a complete planning study of areas suitable for multi-storey buildings in Saanich.

The study was ordered today by the Saanich advisory planning commission after the Royal Trust Co. applied to rezone the land from residential to apartment use.

The one-acre property facing Victoria College is owned by the Walton estate.

Approval of the application would give the owners permission to erect an apartment anywhere between six and 11 storeys high.

FIRST REQUEST

An official of the municipal planning department said the application is the first request for rezoning property in Saanich for high-rise apartments.

"We are going to make a complete study of the high-rise apartment problem before considering the application," he said. "Similar applications are bound to follow in the next few years."

GOOD OFFER

Mrs. Peggy Packard, artist, a member of the Walton family who resides on the property, said some months ago a company offered a "substantial sum" for the land for construction of a garage and gasoline station.

"The family felt that such a development was not suitable for the area," she said.

ANOTHER CLAIM TO FAME

B.C.'s Hottest Spot? You'd Never Guess

The Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain is B.C.'s "hot spot" on a year-round basis.

The mean temperature for 1960 there was 52 degrees. This is warmer than anywhere in B.C. for the full 12-month period, according to the annual report on climate made by Victoria weatherman William H. Mackie for the Provincial Agriculture Department.

Year-round cold spots are Cassiar and Smith River, where the average temperature was 26.

Sunniest in B.C. is Oliver, which recorded a total of 2,304 hours of sunshine for the year.

Victoria had 2,200 hours.

The wettest areas are Ocean Falls, near Powell River, with a total of 185.54 inches of precipitation, and Holberg on the northwest coast of Vancouver Island with 176.32 inches.

Rain in Victoria for the year totalled 23.32 inches at Gonzales and 32.28 inches at Patricia Bay Airport.

Street Improvement To Cost $100,000

An estimated $175,000 worth of winter works projects are scheduled for Oak Bay, the area's third largest municipality.

This represents nearly $10 a head, or what is believed to be the largest winter works expenditure per capita in the area.

Largest single item is expected to be about $100,000 for streets—new ones in the university area, and improvements to old ones—with water works next at $41,000.

MORE STUDY

Proposals came before council Tuesday, but were referred to finance committee and public works for further study.

Participation of federal and provincial governments in the winter works program will bring Oak Bay's estimated total cost to about $140,000.

Work probably would have to be done within the period Oct. 15 to April 30 in order to qualify for senior government aid.

If it is hoped that additional work may be undertaken also, but council has made no commitment as yet.

PARK WORK

About $12,000 is expected to be spent on parks work, mostly in the Cattle Point area, where gravel walks are proposed for the undeveloped part of Uplands Park west of the war memorial.

Street lighting plans include new lamps for Cadboro Bay Road in the narrow portion north of Cedar Hill Cross Road (15 lights), and on Lansdowne east of Foul Bay, for a total of $5,500.

There will be new water mains laid in the older, or southern, parts of Oak Bay, and new pumps to improve water pressures north of Lansdowne.

Coun. Alan Cox told council the proposed program is a "comprehensive one."

Stock Entries Big Feature At Cobble Hill

Well-filled stock sections were featured today at the 52nd annual Cobble Hill Fall Fair sponsored by Shawnigan-Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute.

Both Heatherbank and Lakeside Farms had large exhibits of cattle; and sheep entries also were good.

Additions this year included a new poultry house and sheep ring.

Number of entries in other sections compares favorably with other years, but there was evidence of the dry summer in a reduction in the fruit exhibits.

The show was opened at 1:30 p.m. by Agriculture Minister Frank Richter.

Main event in the afternoon was a gymkhana. Judge was F. H. "Tommy" Wilmut of Langley, and six cups were up for competition.

Entries were received from all parts of Vancouver Island and the B.C. mainland.

BUS LAMENT

Questions, Questions, Questions!

Many delays in new local bus schedules that draw complaints are caused by the passengers themselves, an alderman said today.

Ald. Michael Griffin, chairman of a transit sub-committee which sat three hours Tuesday night considering complaints about the new service, said most of the delays will evaporate when passengers are thoroughly familiar with new routes.

"There have been considerable delays in the new schedule but we found that many of them were caused by the passengers themselves because they kept the drivers busy answering questions about routes and schedules."

"I'm sure if the public has patience, they will find many of these headaches will resolve themselves in time."

A few changes were recommended by the committee and several suggestions were turned down after considering all angles.

CONFLICT

"We considered every complaint from city residents but of course it was not possible to resolve them all because frequently there was conflict between complainants themselves."

Among the sub-committee's recommendations to public works committee are:

Use of a soil consultant company's seismograph to measure comparative bus vibration on sections of Richmond and Richardson where householders have complained;

Review of Sunday schedules to improve connections for church services;

Rejection of a request for bus service on Begbie;

Alteration of No. 1 and No. 3 routes near St. Joseph's Hospital to reduce noise around the institution;

And move the Gonzales Crescent route from Robertson to Beechwood.

SIGHTS SET ON McBRIDE'S RECORD

Premier Marks 61st Birthday

PREMIER BENNETT

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today celebrated his 61st birthday and two political milestones.

The Social Credit premier has been a member of the B.C. Legislature for 20 years, and has now been premier longer than any man but one.

First elected an M.L.A. in 1941 as a Conservative, Mr. Bennett later became an Independent and finally the first Social Credit premier in August 1952.

He now has served nine years as premier, and his goal is to beat the record held by Sir Richard McBride, who held office 12 years from 1903 to 1915. If he remains as premier for his present term he will automatically pass McBride's record.

This summer he overtook Liberal John Oliver, who was the second longest-serving premier.

Mr. Bennett was born in New Brunswick, of United Empire Loyalist stock in 1900, and he made a special trip to that province in August.

Tuesday night, his birthday eve celebration was a half-hour appearance on the national television show Close Up, during which he explained his reasons for taking over the B.C. Electric and the Peace River power project—one of the most dramatic decisions of his long political career.

WITH A WINNING SMILE, pretty Joan Youell of the Saanich 4-H Jersey Calf Club proudly displays her prize-winning heifer "Miracle." Joan, 16, came home from the Pacific National Exhibition with the B.C. championship for showmanship, first prize for the calf in its class and reserve grand championship of the show. The calf also won two firsts and a third prize at Saanich Fair. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Smaller Devices Included in New U.S. A-Tests

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy has ordered resumption of nuclear testing which, informants said today, may help develop new lightweight atomic weapons, step up work on anti-missile rockets and possibly examine the feasibility of a new mass-killer neutron bomb.

Ending a three-year moratorium in the wake of Russia's third above-ground nuclear blast in five days, Kennedy Tuesday approved resumption of laboratory and underground tests — "with no fallout" — saying there is no other choice in meeting responsibilities to Americans "and to the security of other free nations."

Still open until Saturday is the British-American proposal that Russia join with them in an immediate ban on all atmospheric nuclear tests under existing detection methods.

A Moscow broadcast — which claimed the British-American offer is just another excuse for justifying underground and atmospheric tests — indicated that Soviet Premier Khrushchev likely will reject the Western proposal.

John J. McCloy, the U.S. disarmament administrator, arranged to meet in New York today with Valeriy Zorin, Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, to resume talks on setting up a multi-nation disarmament conference.

While the White House gave no details of the new tests other than that they will take place this month, informants said they will be detonated in the Nevada desert test site area. They emphasized there would be no danger of fallout, a contrast to Russian explosions contaminating the atmosphere.

The Americans are particularly interested in testing small atomic weapons for field troops (see page 5); in perfecting a missile that could knock down long-range intercontinental ballistic missiles and in examining the feasibility of a neutron bomb that could destroy vast numbers of humans without extensive damage to cities and towns.

Kennedy was under pressure for months from political and military quarters to resume testing, but made no decision until American authorities announced that Russia had detonated her third atmospheric nuclear explosion over central Asia Tuesday. Kennedy notified Britain, France and West Germany of his decision before making it public.

Kennedy's announcement was immediately hailed by congressional leaders who fear Russia may overtake the reported big American lead in nuclear weapons, adding to Russia's leadership in powerful rockets and space technology.

But the decision was received with dismay by the smaller countries which fear military muscle-flexing by Russia and the United States may engulf the world in a nuclear holocaust.

American atomic sources said the series of explosions which Russia started seem to be of a kind undertaken by the United States in the past. They said that if this is the case, Russia may undertake another

PEARSON SAYS

UN Action On Berlin Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson said today he believes eventually the United Nations will perhaps be required to move into Berlin.

Mr. Pearson won the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize in connection with the UN operation in Suez.

He said he would not be prepared to advise that the UN move into Berlin next week. However, this matter would be in the minds of many people when the UN General Assembly opens in New York Sept. 19.

"The danger of an accident in Berlin is what frightens me," Mr. Pearson told a press conference.

RESULTS UNKNOWN. They were exchanging fire yesterday with water and tear gas. When such a thing starts, you never know where it will finish.

Mr. Pearson said it is hard to believe the Berlin situation could be permitted to result in all-out war. He was glad the Western countries continued to stress the necessity of negotiation.

Berlin, he said, "involves the existence of the planet."

The greatest danger the West would face would be total reliance on nuclear weapons.

If the West replied to any Communist incursion with nuclear weapons only, "the result might be fatal."

NATO must be strong enough in conventional arms so it would not have to rely on nuclear weapons.

STRUCK RIGHT NOTE. The Liberal leader said the Winnipeg speech last week of Prime Minister Diefenbaker on Berlin and nuclear tests "seemed to strike the right note."

Mr. Pearson said he appreciated the restraint in Washington.

Ford Pitches 23rd Victory

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roger Maris of the New York Yankees hit his 54th home run of the season today as the American League leaders blanked the Washington Senators 8-0.

The homer, coming in the Yankees' 139th game, was hit off Tom Cheney in the fourth inning with two out and no runners on base.

Maris, thus needs only six more home runs in 14 games to tie the 34-year-old record of 60 set by the late Babe Ruth in 1927. Today's homer put the young Yankee slugger eight games ahead of Ruth's record pace.

Ruth, who hit a total of 17 home runs in September when he set the record, did not connect for No. 54 until his 147th game. Maris' No. 54 also gave him a three homer lead over teammate Mickey Mantle in their battle to wipe out baseball's most coveted record.

The Yankees, as all other American League teams, play 162 games this season, but commissioner Ford Frick has ruled that homers hit in the first 154 games only will be counted in the assault on Ruth's record.

The game also saw Yankees ace southpaw Whitey Ford rack up his 23rd victory of the season.

Carpeters Finally Sign Contract

Agreement between 600 Victoria carpenters and 22 leading contractors after five months of contract negotiations was reached Tuesday.

Carpenter's Union Local 1598 and Victoria Building Industries Exchange signed their first three-year working contract.

It provides for no wage increase this year, but will give carpenters 16 cents over the next two years, bringing the hourly wage to $3.

The long contract, in which other provisions remain unchanged, "creates stability in the industry," exchange president George Farmer said.

"The contractors won't have to worry about strikes. They'll know what their costs are going to be," he said.

There will be stability "both for the builder and the carpenter. They both know where they are going," said carpenter.

Walkouts Mar Auto Peace Negotiations

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers and General Motors reached substantial agreement on economic areas of a new contract today but not in time to avert wildcat strikes by thousands of GM workers.

GM and the UAW, under the personal urging of President Kennedy to avert a walkout that would damage the national economy, made a pre-dawn announcement of "significant progress" in their negotiations.

The union then extended its strike deadline from 10 a.m. today to 10 a.m. next Monday and immediately sent telegrams to 129 Local unions around the country telling them the walkout had been averted.

But several locals, claiming they had not received word of the contract extension, put their members on strike.

At Pittsburgh, 1,450 workers at a Fisher Body plant walked out.

Another 3,400 workers walked out at the Chevrolet Assembly and Fisher Body plants in Norwood, Ohio, and 1,500 men stayed off their jobs for two hours at South Gate, Calif.

Wildcat walkouts also were reported at Fisher Body and Chevrolet Assembly plants in St. Louis.

UN Troops Attacked

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) — Anti-United Nations disturbances erupted again in Elisabethville tonight and again Katanga police fired shots over the heads of mobs to break up the angry demonstrations.

UN troops stationed in this city in the Congo were stoned and some Swedish soldiers were injured by flying rocks.

Mobs rioted in the streets Tuesday night and wrecked one UN car and burned another.

DIEF, PEARSON AGREE ON FOREIGN POLICY

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker met for 30 minutes today with Opposition leader Lester B. Pearson, discussing the resumption of the parliamentary session and briefing him on the international situation.

Both men indicated to newsmen later that as far as possible there would be agreement between their parties on foreign affairs during the current session.

Pearson said Diefenbaker impressed upon him the gravity of the international situation.

"We want to keep as much unity as possible in external affairs," Pearson said.

Diefenbaker said later that the government has always tried to have unity of foreign policy with the Liberals.

"Our objectives are the same," he said.

Pearson said Diefenbaker was so concerned with the international situation he moved ahead a debate on external affairs so that it could start Thursday on the resumption of the session.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru flew into Moscow from Belgrade today with a "save the peace" plea to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

He was welcomed by Khrushchev with a warm embrace and an expression of hope by the Kremlin leader that "your visit in the present international situation will help to improve this situation for the benefit of world peace."

Nehru came to Moscow direct from the "summit" conference.

U.S. Votes $2.3 Billion for A-Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — A speedup in nuclear weapons tests was urged today by the House of Representatives appropriations committee as it approved $2,322,001,000 for the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

President Kennedy announced Tuesday the United States will resume underground and laboratory tests. The committee earmarked $30,000,000 of the AEC's new money for the weapons testing programs.

French Police Round Up 643 Suspects

PARIS (AP) — Police have made a vast sweep through North African quarters of Paris and rounded up 643 people suspected of Algerian nationalist activity.

The suspects were taken to an identification centre in suburban Vincennes.

Hurricane Carla Heading for Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tropical storm Carla will throw torrential rains and hurricane-force winds at western Cuba late today. Forecasters said a continuation of her present course would mean steadily increasing winds in south Florida and the Florida Keys.

Missing Children Found Safe

MONTREAL (CP) — Five children missing since Tuesday along with a 35-year-old housemaid were found safe today in the care of the municipal family welfare service.

They were left there Tuesday afternoon by the housemaid, known to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Philibert, only as Louis.

Capt. Det. George Cookson of the missing persons bureau said the children are well and were not ill-treated between the time the mother left the home about 11 a.m. and their arrival at the welfare centre about five hours later.

He said he is not looking for the maid, hired "off the street" last week by the Philberts, who live in the south-central district of Griffintown.

The welfare service placed the youngest child, four months, in a nursery, the oldest, 8, in hospital for treatment for a nervous disorder, and the three others in a foster home in nearby Marieville.

Probers Named Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal commission on Canada's financial institutions may be appointed within "the next few days," Prime Minister Diefenbaker told reporters today.

Soccer Team Refused Visas

THE HAGUE (AP) — World tension started to interfere with the world soccer championships today when the Dutch refused the East German soccer team visas for their preliminary World Cup match against Holland here Oct. 1.

The refusal was a direct result of recent developments in Berlin, a foreign office spokesman said.

Unemployment Near 'National Disaster'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Joe Morris, western president of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) warned today that with the working force increasing more rapidly than job opportunities, "the stage is set for a major national disaster."

In a keynote address to the opening session of the four-day IWA western regional convention, Morris told delegates from Saskatchewan, Alberta and B.C. that chronic mass unemployment remains and is likely to grow worse.

Workers must unite in a vigorous campaign to combat this situation but it would require "something in the nature of social tornado to impress upon our governments the simple fact that the waste of unemployment is more costly than measures to cure it."

The western president suggested that the New Democratic Party, with an appropriate constitution and policy, perhaps could provide this "social tornado."

Disastrous forest fires this summer brought a warning to government and the people and on all sides "experienced loggers ask why was not greater attention given to fire prevention instead of relying upon a hurried improvisation of fire fighting methods which failed to control the situation when numerous and large-scale fires were actually raging."

New Deal Saves Ferry Link Between Islands, Mainland

Gulf Islands residents have been relieved — their ferry link with the mainland is being maintained, despite an earlier threat to cut it Sept. 11.

O. H. New, operator of the Coast Ferries Ltd. service from Steveston to the islands, said a new schedule will go into effect Sept. 12.

It will cut out service to Sidney, which was previously the island terminal. The new service will run

Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from Steveston to Galliano, Mayne, Pender and Saturna islands with a one and one-half-hour stop at Saturna before returning to Steveston.

The same route will be followed on Sundays, with a half-hour stop at Saturna.

CUT 25 HOURS

Mr. New said this service will cut a total of 25 hours sailing time from present schedules.

The company had intended to drop the entire Gulf Islands run Sept. 11 because it was uneconomical and it could not get further financial assistance from the B.C. government.

A delegation of island residents protested last week to Highways Minister P. A. Gallagher, who promised to get in touch with Mr. New and do everything possible to maintain the ferry link.

Mr. New said the revised service will be in effect pending further discussions with the government.

It is believed the company would be willing to sell its operation to the Toll Authority, which has just taken over the other Gulf Island ferries which run from Swartz Bay to Salt Spring, Pender and Mayne.

$2 MILLION STRIKE FUND?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The buildup of a separate $2,000,000 strike fund through an extra $4 a month assessment on membership is proposed in a Duncan resolution to be put before the western conference of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA).

The proposal by local 1-80 embracing IWA workers in central Vancouver Island said the extra $4 assessment should be separate from the present $1-a-month strike fund assessment. However, the latter would remain in effect.

V.I. BRIEFS

Teen-Agers 'Explore' Religion

Rev. E. W. Scott of Southampton, a Church of England clergyman who has been appointed chaplain of Shawnigan Lake School, said Tuesday all teen-agers are religious but that their attitude towards religion is "exploratory."

Interviewed on his arrival in Montreal aboard the Polish liner Batory, Mr. Scott said teen-aged persons "like to talk about religion and do so readily, but — simply because they are teen-agers — they do not like to conform to fixed religious patterns."

Teen-agers do not really like to be left to their own devices. When left entirely on their own, they go to pieces, he said.

Given a real challenge, however, they rise to the occasion. Before his appointment to Shawnigan Lake School, Mr. Scott was vicar of Midgham-with-Brimpton in the diocese of Oxford, England. At one time he was rector of St. George's Windsor Park in Edmonton.

ference of unaligned nations in Belgrade which in a final communique called upon Soviet Russia and the United States to immediately "suspend their recent war preparations" and "resume negotiations for a peaceful settlement of any outstanding differences between them."

FOLLOWED NKHRUMAH

As a peace emissary from Belgrade, Nehru arrived shortly after President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, also designated by the Belgrade conference to carry its peace pleas to Khrushchev.

It was Nehru who received the major attention. He had scheduled this official visit before the Belgrade conference.

Nehru was met with full honors at Vnukovo airport by Khrushchev leading a delegation of top-ranking party and government officials. Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev led the welcoming delegation for Nkrumah.

The greetings were extremely cordial.

Khrushchev, still tanned from his recent Black Sea vacation, gave Nehru one of his typical bear-hug greetings. In his brief airport remarks, he not only expressed the hope Nehru's visit could help the cause of peace but also stressed the record of friendship between the Soviet Union and India.

Nehru, who had scheduled an official visit here before the Belgrade conference, sponsored the meeting's pre-dawn peace appeal to the United States and the Soviet Union only a few hours earlier.

Nkrumah was the official conference delegate who was to impress on Khrushchev the emergency call of the 25 uncommitted nations.

ter's spokesman E. T. Staley, of the Provincial Council of Carpenters.

Mr. Farmer said although negotiations were lengthy, they were friendly.

"It speaks well for both sides that there is a successful completion of the agreement," added Mr. Staley.

A month ago, carpenters were considering strike action when negotiations appeared to have bogged down.

The contract is effective from April 1 this year to March 31, 1961. There will be an eight-cents an hour increase on the present $2.94 next April 1, and a further eight cents April 1, 1963.
